Help for HH: Is It Enough?

By ROBERT J. DONOVAN
(Columnist Los Angeles Times Service)

WASHINGTON — The bombing halt and broadening of Vietnam talks announced by President Johnson Thursday injected a new and significant — but not necessarily decisive — factor into the presidential campaign five days before the election.

Obviously, the decision is a big help to Vice-President Hubert Humphrey, the apparent underdog.

This is a far cry, however, from saying it will defeat Richard Nixon. For it has never been established that Nixon's lead has depended on the day-to-day situation in Vietnam. Rather it has been due to many factors, notably the widespread desire for a change.

Above and beyond the president's dramatic announcement, the more critical factor in an increasingly foggy political situation is that for some time now Humphrey evidently has been closing in on Nixon. What has been happening, it seems, is that Democratic voters who kicked over the traces after the debacle at the Democratic national convention in Chicago, have begun drifting back to party regularity.

Some of them are former supporters of Sen. Eugene McCarthy. McCarthy's endorsement of the vice-president on Tuesday doubtless accelerated their return.

Others among those returning are Democratic labor unionists who had decided to bolt to former Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, but who now seem to be coming back to the Democratic fold as a result of the extraordinary job being done by union leaders to pull their followers into line behind the vice-president.

In other words, if Humphrey were somehow to bring off the greatest political upset since Harry Truman defeated Thomas Dewey in 1948, the basis of his victory would have been the Democratic surge that began even before the president's speech. The bombing halt would be the frosting on the cake.

If this analysis, supported by some of the best experts there are, is correct, then it is the trend before the bombing halt and not the announcement itself that will have been decisive.

In a very close election, of course, the frosting might make the difference. The political picture has reached such a point of opacity that for all anyone really knows, very small shifts in the total vote could decide the election.

Hence the significance of the boost the vice-president got from the White House Thursday night.

While encouraged, however, not many of his supporters

Saigon Miffed

SAIGON (UPI) — A miffed South Vietnamese government said today in its first official reaction to the U.S. bombing halt that President Johnson "unilaterally took the decision" to end the air raids over North Vietnam.

Several government sources had said in private that Johnson's decision would mean a great loss of face for President Thieu.

U.S. HALTS BOMBING

Saigon, Cong To Join Talks

From Reuters - AP - UPI
WASHINGTON — President Johnson Thursday night ordered a complete bombing halt over

North Vietnam to open the way for full-scale political talks between the United States, North Vietnam, South Vietnam and the Viet Cong.

In Paris, U.S. and North Vietnamese negotiators early today plunged into immediate preparations for full-scale peace talks, set to begin next Wednesday.

A spokesman for the Hanoi group said a press conference would be held later today in response to Johnson's announcement.

The president's dramatic announcement was coupled with a sharp warning that the new talks "cannot continue" if the communists take advantage of the American decision to stop the bombing.

Johnson ended three weeks of worldwide speculation by announcing in a television broadcast that all U.S. air, naval and artillery bombardment of North Vietnam would end at 5 a.m. PST today.

"What we now expect — what we have a right to expect — are prompt, productive, serious and intensive negotiations in an atmosphere that is conducive to progress," he said.

Official sources said the president acted because he had "reason to believe" that Hanoi would scale down the fighting and would respect the demilitarized buffer zone between North and South Vietnam.

Hubert Humphrey said in Newark, N.J., he "fully supported" Johnson's halt of the bombing and called it a "prudent and . . . wise decision."

Minutes after the announcement, the campaigning Democratic presidential candidate said "I hope it will lead to a peaceful settlement."

His Republican opponent, Richard Nixon, appearing at a rally in New York's Madison Square Garden, would not comment beyond saying "I trust this action may bring some progress in those (Paris) talks."

One of his supporters, however, said Johnson's decision was made possible by Nixon's "responsible support of the president's efforts."

Third presidential candidate George Wallace, in Norfolk, Va., also refused any comment except to say "I sincerely hope we have an honorable settlement."

North Vietnamese reaction quoted in Paris was: "This removes a tremendous obstacle to peace — but now the political struggle for our country begins."

Further comment was withheld pending study of the announcement.

Washington sources indicated that Johnson decided to declare the bombing halt even without a public pledge of military reciprocity because of secret indications that Hanoi would refrain from taking military advantage of the American move.

Rocket Slams Church

SAIGON (AP) — United States warplanes carried out daylight missions against North Vietnam today but orders went out to stop the northern bombing by 9 p.m. Saigon time in line with President Johnson's bombardment halt.

In the South, rockets slammed into Saigon Thursday night and then early today just before President Johnson made his announcement in Washington. One rocket hit a Roman Catholic church, killing 19 worshippers and wounding 64. Two other persons died and 14 were wounded by other rockets.

Six-Cent Mail Is Here

New rates detailed on Page 8.

OTTAWA (CP) — Rates for almost every item of mail go up today as Canada's post office enters a new era.

It costs you six cents, not five, to send a letter, whether it is going around the block or across the country.

It will be a nickel for Christmas cards, not three cents.

These and many other changes pinch the citizen and businessman now. More come next April 1 for publishers of newspapers and magazines.

Authority for the most expensive increases was granted the government in the nick of time Thursday evening, when royal assent was given to a government bill in the Senate chamber.

The post office has 67,000,000 six-cent stamps printed. They are ready for sale at wickets in Ontario and Quebec, but distribution will be delayed for a few days in other provinces, where residents will have to use a combination of smaller-denomination stamps.

Youth Image Urged To Enrich Socreds

VANCOUVER — The Social Credit party in B.C. is going to try to build a new "youth image" in the next 12 months but will stick solidly behind its leader since 1962, 68-year-old William Andrew Cecil Bennett.

There were strong indications Thursday, provided by two cabinet ministers and the B.C.

Social Credit League president on the eve of the party's annual convention which opens today, that this is the course mapped out by party strategists leading up to the next provincial general election.

Attorney-General Leslie Peterson, in a speech to the women's auxiliary convention Thursday morning, called on the party to appeal directly to youth, seeking to channel the energy that is bringing ferment to university campuses into a "peaceful and meaningful" pursuit of change.

"NO STATUS QUO" He said Social Credit began in 1962 as a reform movement in this province and still stands for useful innovations.

"We don't believe in keeping the status quo," Mr. Peterson said. "We are not prisoners of the past or past policies. We are prepared to take ideas and innovations from anywhere if they are good for the people of the province."

Mr. Peterson said restless youth in general and student activists in particular are being invited by Social Credit to participate in the decision-making process.

"We ask only that they exercise individual and social responsibility because with every right and every freedom there is a responsibility to ourselves as well as to society as a whole."

The attorney-general was applauded loudly when he

Canada Ready To Aid Peace

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp Thursday night hailed President Johnson's move to halt the bombing of North Vietnam as a "courageous" step and said Canada is ready to help in Vietnam peacekeeping efforts.

As a member of the International Control Commission, Canada was ready to help in the process of negotiation or in a peacekeeping capacity if both parties so wished. Sharp declined to say what kind of role Canada might play, BURBANK, Calif. (LAT) — Zsa Zsa Gabor said Thursday that she had placed cold compresses on a badly scalded leg that she got during an outburst of temper between herself and George Jessel.

She never appeared on the show because Jessel ordered her off the premises.

She looked herself in her dressing room and finally left in the company of "three beautiful, wonderful Irish policemen" from the Burbank police department, Miss Gabor said.

The incident occurred Wednesday afternoon at the taping of a session of the show Here Come the Stars at the NBC studios in Burbank.

Miss Gabor was to have been the guest of honor. Other celebrities were supposed to tell humorous anecdotes about her.

She never appeared on the show because Jessel ordered her off the premises.

She looked herself in her dressing room and finally left in the company of "three beautiful, wonderful Irish policemen" from the Burbank police department, Miss Gabor said.

Jessel said by telephone from New York that the Hungarian-born actress had made anti-Semitic remarks about him and had shown up 1½ hours late for the show.

"That's no way to treat people. She had no regard for anybody," said Jessel, the show's master of ceremonies.

Miss Gabor said she was late because the show's producers had failed to send a hairdresser and makeup man to her home that morning.

"I do have to look like Zsa Zsa Gabor," she said.

After arriving at the studio, she said, a young woman took her hairpiece off to style it in Grecian curls.

"She made it look like Pinella D'Amico," Miss Gabor said.

The actress said she then slipped out of her Christian Dior traveling coat partly into a robe to dress for her appearance when Jessel and other men burst into the dressing room.

"They saw me half-nude,

They saw everything on me," she said.

About the same time a page bringing her a sandwich and coffee came in and spilled the hot liquid on her leg, she said.

The men's behavior frightened her to the point that she was "petrified," she said.

Miss Gabor said she called the police to escort her out of the studio.

The desk sergeant said he was startled to hear a voice on the telephone saying, "Hello, darling, this is Zsa Zsa . . ."

Israelis Blow Up Targets Deep in Egypt Territory

From AP, UPI

An Israeli commando unit slipped deep into Egypt Thursday night, blew up two bridges and a power station on the Nile River and got back safely to Israel, the Israeli army announced in Tel Aviv.

Israel said the action, 144 miles north of the Aswan Dam, was reprisal for "a series of aggressive Egyptian acts" across the Suez Canal in past weeks.

Meanwhile, Jordanian and Israeli patrols fought half a dozen skirmishes along the Jordan River.

Two mine explosions wounded three Israeli soldiers deep inside occupied territory while Cairo sources warned "the situation is approaching an explosion point."

The warning came from Al-Ahram, the newspaper widely regarded as the voice of President Gamal Abdel Nasser's government.

Egyptian sources also said Salah Gohar, undersecretary for Palestinian affairs, told chief UN truce observer Gen. Emil Bull that Egypt would feel free to open fire at will on any Israeli positions along the 20-mile Suez Canal front.

In Jerusalem, Israel resolved to continue working with the UN, but it also appeared determined to stick to its demand for face-to-face talks with the Arabs.

Mail Rates Up Today

A total of 218,600,000 five-cent Christmas-card stamps go on sale everywhere today, and a further batch of 73,000,000 six-cent Christmas stamps for people who like to write a message on their cards will go on sale Nov. 15.

USER SHALL PAY

The new rates take a long step toward solving what Postmaster-General Eric Kierans has called a "critical as well as chronic" post office deficit by embracing the formula that "the user shall pay."

The government now expects a $40,000,000 post office deficit in the 1968-70 fiscal year beginning next April 1. Without the changes, the deficit would have been $130,000,000.

Mr. Kierans says they are one element of a three-part formula to make the post office "cope with the real world."

CHANGES LATE

Item 2: A host of plans to reduce operating costs.

Item 3: Elimination of "unnecessary services," including Saturday mail delivery after next Feb. 1 in all but rural areas.

The changes today by law and by regulation come much later than the government had hoped. Eleven months ago, a resolution that would have led to some of the same increases was defeated when several Liberal MPs dickered over dinner and failed to get back to the Commons in time for a vote.

DEFICIT GREW

Mr. Kierans moved fast after he was appointed to the cabinet July 5. But by the time the Senate had given third reading to his bill Thursday, wage settlements for postal workers and postmasters had added another $40,000,000 to his annual deficit.

He ran into opposition from publishers on his plans for big increases in second-class mail. In the end, he agreed to stage increases for newspapers and periodicals over three six-month periods, starting next April 1. He estimates second-class mail still will be subsidized by about $39,000,000, in 1969-70.

CITIES ONLY

His own caucus rallied to support the protests of their rural voters, and Mr. Kierans agreed to apply five-day delivery only in the cities. He agreed the five-day formula would cause serious hardship to rural Canadians "who depend upon Saturday delivery for, in particular, their newspapers."

The opposition tried for several days to send the bill to a committee, where rate increases and service reductions could be fought out in detail. Mr. Kierans refused.

The new six-cent rate for letters replaces both the five-cent out-of-town rate and the four-cent charge for local delivery.

POSTCARDS, TOO

Postcards also go to six cents, from four. The surcharge on business-reply mail is two cents, up from one.

Unsealed mail such as Christmas cards, greeting cards and circulars, goes to five cents from three.

It costs substantially more to send books, printed matter, samples and heavy items such as catalogues, telephone and trade directories.

Airmail letters to the U.S. go to 10 cents from eight on the first ounce, with an extra six cents for each additional ounce. Postcards are also a dime.

the contrary, he confided to the American people that a tough road still lies ahead. Politically, this is welcome, yet imperfect news.

The very fact that the president reached his decision only five days before the election will cause an adverse reaction among some voters.

Senator Charles McNamara (R-Iowa) epitomized it when he remarked after the White House broadcast that Johnson's statement "has all the earmarks of political motivation."

Radical vote switches in the last five days are scarcely the rule in American politics — quite the contrary.

Nixon is far ahead in California and, except possibly in Washington, throughout the Far West. The Rocky Mountain states are his without question. He is running away with the Great Plains states and it appears, he is doing well in New England.

Bombing pause or no, he will be tough to beat in Ohio, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Florida, Virginia, Texas, Hampshire is gaining! So it seems. But it could still be an overwhelming Nixon victory, despite Johnson's announcement.

After all, the president did not declare the end of the war. Gratifying as his words were, they still did not spell out the end of casualties, the return of the troops, the cessation of the fighting. On president's 1,800-word televised address, which followed a meeting of members of the National Security Council and the cabinet, was:

Johnson Orders Halt in Bombing

"I have now ordered that air, naval, and artillery bombardment of North Vietnam cease as of 8 a.m. Washington time Friday morning."

The president said that he is halting all air, naval and artillery bombardment of North Vietnam, under his current decision, but officials said this applies to all acts involving use of force, including troop activity in the North. It exempts, however, unarmed reconnaissance.

The president made it clear that he considers some risks are involved and said the North Vietnamese have been put on notice that any violation of the U.S. conditions will bring immediate retaliation.

Hanoi was told pointedly in advance that any cessation of bombing in the North — if followed by abuse of the demilitarized zone, attacks on cities or provincial capitals, or refusal by North Vietnam to enter promptly into serious political discussions — could not be sustained. And a condition also was laid down that the discussions would have to include the government of South Vietnam.

Just what the form of representation of the Viet Cong on Hanoi's side of the bargaining table will be is not clear, except that the U.S. government is not recognizing the NLF as an equal, participating government.

The president said that the entire joint chiefs of staff and Vietnam commander Gen. Creighton W. Abrams informed him that "in their military judgment this action should be taken now, and this action would not result in any increase in American casualties."

The president said he concluded that the time had come to see if Hanoi is acting in good faith.

"We could be misled — and we are prepared for such a contingency," he warned. "We pray to God it does not occur."

The first real breakthrough in the search for peace came last Sunday. At that time word came through that the North Vietnamese were ready to move in accordance with conditions Johnson had started out with.

He said he spent most of Tuesday going over every single detail with his field commander, Gen. Abrams.

Johnson said: "A regular session of the Paris talks will take place on Wednesday, Nov. 6, at which the representatives of the government of South Vietnam are free to participate. We are informed by the representatives of the Hanoi government that the representatives of the National Liberation Front will also be present."

"I emphasize that their attendance in no way involves recognition of the National Liberation Front in any form. Yet, it conforms to the years that the NLF would have no difficulty making its views known."

Rental Hikes Accepted By Tenants

VANCOUVER (CP) — A two-week dispute between 22 tenants and the owner of the 52-suite Rosemont apartments ended Wednesday with most of the tenants agreeing to pay rent increases of $2 to $12 a month. The owner, Mrs. Eva Virtue said all but six of her tenants had agreed to the increase, and those six would be moving out Nov. 30.

The dispute arose when Mrs. Virtue sent out eviction notices to the 22 tenants who refused to pay the increased rents and formed the Rosemont Tenants' Association to negotiate with her.

A spokesman for the tenants, Peter Helford, said Thursday the agreement was "a definite improvement over the insecurity of the past."

Mrs. Virtue stressed she had come to terms with individual tenants — not the association.

Sterilization Can Be Too Final

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 23, have one daughter, and am expecting another child in six weeks.

My husband and I don't want any more children. I've asked my obstetrician to sterilize me and he refused. The planned parenthood association said they could do nothing.

Everybody is hollering about the population explosion, but when a married woman who has two children wants to be sterilized it is as difficult as getting to the moon. —Mrs. W.D.

If you'd seen as many letters as I have, starting out, "I had my tubes tied several years ago, but now I am married again and we so much want another baby," you'd know why doctors don't regard sterilization as lightly as you do.

So talk to your obstetrician, or to an organization, about some other form of contraception.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can plastic surgery correct the "moon-face" condition caused by extended use of cortisone? —W.S.

Plastic surgery won't help, but now that you are off the medication the puffiness should subside eventually.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is psoriasis contagious? How does it start in the first place? Is there any cure or treatment for it? —M.A.G.

It is not contagious, but no one has yet been able to discover what causes it. And that's why it has been impossible to find a cure.

I do not mean that it is never cured. (And sometimes it goes away spontaneously, and again we don't know why.) Sometimes one treatment works and another won't. Sometimes no treatment succeeds.

My advice to most people with psoriasis, unless the case is extremely annoying and worth the expense of trying different treatments, is to have your doctor prescribe an ointment that will soften the skin and prevent itching and scaling, and then be satisfied with comfort instead of cure. After all, except for the itch and the appearance, psoriasis isn't a dangerous ailment.

Nigeria Offers Apology

LAGOS (CP) — The Nigerian government has apologized for an outspoken verbal attack made Sunday night by Col. Benjamin (Black Scorpion) Adekunle on members of the international observers team.

Joseph Gohir, permanent secretary in the defence ministry, called a press conference Thursday to announce that apologies had been conveyed to observers personally and to the governments of Canada, Sweden, Britain and Poland and the UN.

QUICK END
The government was evidently concerned to put a quick end to the episode which occurred in Port Harcourt as a group of observers, including Canada's Lt. Col. E. B. M. (Bert) Pinnington of Ottawa and Oshale, Ont., sat in the Third Marine Commando Division officers' mess.

Adekunle, mercurial commander and most celebrated federal officer in the fight against secessionist Biafra, strode in and gave vent to grievances caused by earlier disagreement over the observers' itineraries.

CHANGES MADE
Among other things he accused them of interfering with military operations and of coming to Nigeria to further their military careers.

Canada's chief observer, Maj.-Gen. W. A. Milroy, said after Thursday's statement by Gohir that observers had received the federal government's apology and considered the incident closed. Maj.-Gen. Arthur Raab of Sweden, at 62 the senior member of the observer team, concurred.

HIS VERSION
At the press conference Gohir told reporters that Adekunle had given his version of the incident to Maj.-Gen. Yakubu Gowon, head of the federal military government, in an interview Wednesday. Gowon had also got a report from the observer team.

"He was satisfied with the explanations given by both parties," said Gohir.

Referring to Adekunle, Gohir said:

"He doesn't mean to offend anybody. It's just his nature. Why people should take him so seriously I don't know. He's a first class officer."

PRAGUE (UPI)—The Soviet Union has forbidden Czechoslovakia to take any hard currency loans from the West and demanded instead that the Alexander Dubcek regime significantly increase its trade with Moscow, government sources said Thursday.

Details of the tight economic squeeze on Prague were spelled out to Czechoslovak Deputy Premier Frantisek Hamouz at Kremlo negotiations three weeks ago, the sources said.

The Russians reportedly were prepared to offer Prague a loan in hard currency of more than $300,000,000. But they demanded the money be used to strengthen and modernize the nation's marginally profitable heavy industry, which mainly turns out machinery for export to the Soviet Union.

The report coincided with an announcement that Frantisek Mares, deputy foreign trade minister, Thursday flew to Moscow for talks on 1969 trade between the two countries.

Thomson

Toll Lower During Lull

SAIGON (UPI) — The U.S. command said Thursday 109 Americans were killed in the Vietnam war last week, second lowest seven-day toll this year. The battle statistics reflected a lull in the ground war that began early in October.

The total of 109 men killed in the week ended last Saturday was nine more than for the previous week, which was the lowest in 15 months.

U.K. to Resume Settlement Talks

Cabinet Expert Going to Rhodesia

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Wilson plans to send his cabinet expert to Salisbury during the next few days to resume settlement talks with Rhodesian leader Ian Smith, it was learned Thursday.

George Thomson, former Commonwealth secretary and currently minister without portfolio, is expected to remain in Salisbury for five or six days, informants said.

Wilson, anxious to obtain a settlement, will unveil his plans before Parliament today. Informants insisted, however, that Wilson will only allow negotiations within the terms of his six principles, including guarantees that will lead to majority rule by 4,000,000 African blacks at some unspecified future date.

Smith has made clear he has the last few months he has shown a more conciliatory mood. He has sought a compromise acceptable to the Commonwealth.

Canada tended to support the British position initially but British authorities said they were surprised and somewhat dismayed when Canada in effect voted against Britain when it supported a United Nations committee resolution that said there should be no independence for Rhodesia before majority rule.

The Guardian suggested Wednesday that as a result of this move, Canada was placed "in the deep freeze" in Wilson's office. But both Canadian and British officials said there was no truth in the report.

Foreign Forecast

THE WIDELY HELD VIEW that young people will be a major influence in next week's presidential election in the United States is refuted by statistics. Voters under 30 years of age, for instance, are outnumbered by more than four to one by those over 60, and more than half the total votes in the contest will be cast by people over 45 years of age.

Some foreign observers, who believe that they enjoy a clearer view and a better perspective of the American political scene than those closer to the action, feel that this fact will significantly affect the results of the election.

The older voters, they say, with jobs, homes and families are likely to seek security above all else. They have lived through America's great era of post-war prosperity and enthusiasm and their super-confidence in America's ability to solve all problems in the world has now evaporated.

Because of this, the overseas pundits predict the election will not this time go to the man with the key to Utopia, but to the man calculated best able to return the United States to a reasonable measure of law, order and tranquility. Ambitious policies at home and abroad which might threaten or slow down the return to this desired state of affairs will find little or no support among the majority—and middle-aged—electorate.

Thus do some European prophets read the future. Unfortunately their prescience does not go far enough at this time to enable them to name the next occupant of the White House.

Two Policies

THE REQUEST of the Capital Regional District Board for a joint interview with the two ministers directly concerned with water pollution is entirely reasonable. The board wants to determine just what is the policy of the provincial government on sewage disposal into the sea. And it is essential to know if time and money is being wasted on plans and tests for a system without primary treatment plants but with long, deep outfalls.

Health Minister Ralph Loffmark has given every indication that he intends to insist on primary treatment plants as a qualification for receiving health department permits for new or additional sewage discharges. He has put it as plainly as this: that "either municipalities will provide satisfactory evidence of plans to construct and finance treatment plants—and we will have outside consulting engineers to advise us what reasonable time limits to set—or no certificates will be issued."

On the other hand, the Pollution Control Board, for which Water Resources Minister Ray Williston is responsible, bases its permits on certain standards, which the regional board is sure its planned outfalls would meet.

The question is, which is the policy of the government? A blanket demand for the installation of treatment plants whether needed or not, or a requirement of satisfactory evidence that sewage will not contaminate the water in such a way or to such a degree as to endanger health or the environment?

The latter would seem the more sensible, for if the capital region can show that its proposed outlets will meet strict standards, there is not much point in pouring millions of dollars into plants. Cost is not the only objection to building unnecessary facilities, either, but location.

There is no telling if a conference of the two ministers and the regional board would sway Mr. Loffmark from his seemingly adamant position. But it could give the board, and the community, a clear view of what it must do to win provincial approval of its sewer plans. The sooner there is no doubt, the better.

Empty Showcase

ONE FEATURE of the 1967 World's Fair in Montreal that could not be counted as a resounding success was the futuristic dwelling block, Habitat 67. At a time when housing is one of Canada's most serious problems, the ironic view might be that Habitat now stands as a monument to homes beyond the financial grasp of ordinary Canadians. And an expensive one.

The sorry facts of Habitat were drawn from Transport Minister Paul Hellyer in the House of Commons recently by a series of question by Mr. Jack McIntosh, MP for Swift Current-Maple Creek.

It was built at a cost of $22,569,350. It was turned back to the federal government by the Expo corporation at the beginning of this year. One hundred and fifteen units in it are now available for occupancy. Two furnished and three unfurnished units are rented. Rentals range from $190 for a one-bedroom suite, through $275 to $310 for two bedrooms, $380 to $420 for three bedrooms, $395 to $460 for four bedrooms, to $600 for a penthouse suite.

Since taking over control of the building the government has spent $23,265 on heat, light and water; $85,712 on renovation and repairs; $24,123 on furnishing and decorating; $17,468 on advertising for occupants; $21,040 on snow removal and grounds maintenance; $10,100 on limousine service for tenants; $54,382 for protective service, and $34,200 for managerial and other administrative services.

Further—and these are the answers that hurt and amaze:

The estimated annual deficit on the operation of Habitat this year is $442,088.

There is no expectation that operation of Habitat will eventually recover the capital cost of construction, improvement and maintenance.

No consideration has been given to turning over Habitat to Montreal for use as a low-rent housing project.

No consideration has been given to its demolition. In the circumstances, the government surely owes the taxpayers of Canada an explanation of what it is considering, or an assurance that it is considering something. Nearly half a million dollars a year could be put to far better housing use than keeping open a showcase empty of meaning and three-quarters empty of tenants.

Israel Seeks Survival—III

Founding Father and Patriot, Ben-Gurion, Would Like a Soldier as Prime Minister

By RICHARD BOWER

ISRAEL'S first 20 years as a modern twentieth-century state have been years of progress and victory. But they have also been years of frustration and defeat.

Certainly one of her great accomplishments has been the absorption of nearly a million-and-a-half Jews from all parts of the world. These people, being the products of different environments and speaking different languages, came to Israel as strangers to the land and to each other. They had but one thing in common—they were Jews.

The bringing in, housing, teaching, training and finding gainful employment for these homeless and mostly penniless—thousands while trying to establish a sound economy and fight off the Arabs at the same time, has been a Herculean task. Yet somehow they have succeeded.

Today Israel's population stands very near the 2,000,000 mark, of which close to 2,500,000 are Jews and the remainder Moslems, Christians and Druses.

Under a well organized development plan the needs of these people have been and are being met. New industrial towns and farming communities have been created with all the necessary ancillaries of schools, hospitals and roads. Hundreds of thousands of Jews have been rehabilitated and are now leading useful and productive lives.

But today the Israeli government is having to divert much of the money originally intended for such progressive schemes for defence purposes.

This coupled with the staggering costs of administering and policing the occupied areas and the 1,000,000 Arabs who remain in them, has sadly depleted the already meagre Israeli coffers.

Understandably this has resulted in a general feeling of frustration among the Israeli people. Most feel that the coalition government is doing all it can to meet the situation, though others feel that the problems could be better solved if other policies were initiated under new leadership.

Divergent as their views may be on the subject, all Israelis are dedicated to one single purpose: the indestructibility of the State of Israel.

To the outside world the best known Israeli is David Ben-Gurion, who more than any other living man guided the destinies of the fledgling state. Now in his 83rd year and retired after serving as prime minister of Israel for most of its life, he lives in the quiet Sdeh Boker kibbutz in the Negev.

It was this man who, twenty years ago, as head of the National Council representing the Jewish people in Palestine and the Zionist movement, declared Israel a free and independent state.

On that day of May 14, 1948, when Jerusalem was under Arab siege and out of, he stood before the council in the Tel Aviv Museum Hall and read Israel's Proclamation of Independence.

The Proclamation began: "In the land of Israel the Jewish people came into being. In this land was shaped their spiritual, religious, and national character. Here they lived in sovereign independence. Here they created a culture of nations and a universal import, and gave to the world the eternal Book of Books."

And it ended: "We... by virtue of our natural and historic right and of the resolution of the General Assembly of the United Nations, do hereby proclaim the establishment of a Jewish State in the Land of Israel—the State of Israel." Less than 12 hours after this, his first official act as premier of the State of Israel, Israel was under attack by the Arab states.

This is the last of three articles by the publisher and editor-in-chief of The Colonist, who recently completed a three-week tour of Israel and the occupied territories at the invitation of the Israeli government. During his stay there he talked with major political, diplomatic and military leaders. In this series he tries to interpret the Israeli position on the Middle East situation.

Though no longer in the front line of government and far removed from the Knesset in Jerusalem, Ben-Gurion still keeps a very sensitive finger on the pulse of things. Surrounded by books, memos, letters and aide-memoire and well served by a two-way radio system, he is suspected by his friends and accused by his enemies of still trying to run the country.

Though he occasionally will make a public appearance to greet a group of visitors to Israel, he keeps much to himself these days. The writer was greatly privileged therefore to be granted an unprecedented hour-and-a-quarter interview with the former prime minister. Everything about David Ben-Gurion except perhaps his halo of white hair belies his years. A man of medium height, tanned and sprightly, he converses with obvious zest and enjoys the points he makes as much as does the listener.

Reluctant to look too far into the future, he said: "It is difficult to see what lies ahead at this time. But, for my part, it is a choice of peace or giving up the territories we have taken. I would favor keeping the territories..."

Broadening his view, the former prime minister, said that it was impossible to talk about peace in the Middle East without talking about peace in the rest of the world.

"There can only be peace in the world if the United States and Russia draw closer together. The only future for all people in the world is peace. If peace does not come the human race will destroy itself."

Turning to Russia, he said: "Russia is the greatest imperialist nation in the world today. She looks to the Middle East to expand her empire in Africa."

What is Israel's future? Answering the former Israeli premier quoted the Bible: "Israelah said, and it is true: 'a covenant for a people and a light to the nations.' That is what Israel can be and ought to be."

The Jews, he said, must strive to lead. "And," he added, "though quality is better than quantity, we must have more Jewish Jews."

Paying tribute to the generous help the Jews in the outside world have given Israel in the past two decades through the United Israel Appeal without which the state's economy might have ground to a halt, the old warrior said: "But now we want people as well as money."

There was, he said, a Hebrew saying which didn't translate too easily into English, "But basically, it says that there are two kinds of people in the world, those who give and those who receive. Today we want the kind that give, but give of themselves."

Israel, he said, offered a universal import, and gave to the world the eternal Book of Books.

And it ended: "We... by virtue of our natural and historic right and of the resolution of the General Assembly of the United Nations, do hereby forward was the decision to make Hebrew our national language. We have now brought a dead language to life—and established it as a method of communication between all Jews no matter where they come from."

His final word was on his favorite topic—politics. With a general election up in November, who would be like to see as prime minister? Unhesitatingly, he replied: "Dayan."

A protégé of Ben-Gurion's, the one-eyed victor of the Six-Day War is presently enjoying immense popularity throughout the Jewish state. Now minister of defence, General Moshe Dayan is widely touted as the logical successor to Premier Levi Eshkol, now in his seventies.

Ben-Gurion summed up: "Dayan is young, he is popular and he is clever. He was my best chief of staff when I was prime minister. When he became interested in politics he knew nothing about them. But I trained him. That is why I know he is good."

Washington Calling

In Spite of Confident Pollsters U.S. Election Result Is Guesswork

By MARQUIS CHILDS

LIKE a bellicose sphinx, George C. Wallace sits on the answer to the South. Both in the Nixon and Humphrey camps once the four states of the Deep South—Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi and Georgia—are conceded to the third-party candidate the rest is sheer guesswork.

What is more, the political future of a Dixie comfortably taken for granted in the past promises to be clouded long after the votes are counted on Nov. 5. Even in a brief sortie south of the Mason and Dixon line it is astonishing to find how deep heels are dug in to resist change.

From otherwise responsible men—certainly not in the redneck category—you hear the view that repression, any form of repression, had better be applied quickly before Negro riots and violence get out of hand. Get it over with right now, is the attitude. The stern demands of a black militant on national television produces an indignant reaction, and tales of the peripatetic gap between blacks and whites in New York City bring grim satisfaction.

Whether Wallace or Richard Nixon can best apply this repression is the half-baked question in many Southern minds. The end result will be a three-way split. And that split is the hope cherished in the Hubert Humphrey camp for a modest harvest of electoral votes in the Southern and Border States.

Humphrey's campaign manager, Lawrence O'Brien, believes the split in Virginia and South Carolina may put those states in the vice-president's column. In South Carolina a large Negro registration is an element that should count for Humphrey. The swing of conservative voters from Nixon to Wallace can be a determining factor, as the Humphrey managers see it, in North Carolina, Tennessee and Kentucky.

Florida is an arena where the struggle has intensified as the election nears. With a long-brewing revolt against the Democratic party of the regular and Lyndon Johnson it would seem to be a shoo-in for Nixon. But three groups cultivated by the Humphrey forces cast a shadow of doubt on the outcome. The minorities—a concentration of Jewish voters in Miami and the Negro—plus the elderly in an infinite variety of leisure worlds concerned over social security are the impediments.

Moreover, the Democrats believe they have a secret weapon in their arsenal. Claude Kirk, Florida's first Republican governor in 94 years, has proved after a flashy start to be, in the admission of many in his own party, a small disaster. His bumbling machinations as he engaged his second place on the national ticket made him ridiculous, and this along with various misadventures in his private and public life disillusioned voters who had abandoned traditional ties to elect him in 1966.

Add to this the presence on the Democratic ticket of a strong candidate for the United States Senate, LeRoy Collins, a former Florida governor, entered the race as an underdog after a bruising primary fight which he won by a whisker. But he has climbed steadily to a point at which he is rated at least even.

His opponent is Edward Gurney, a hard-line conservative with a Harvard accent from his native New England. Gurney, a lawyer and state legislator who often sounds like an echo of Wallace, has the backing of Florida's big money, which is considerable. All this and Ronald Reagan, as the California governor comes to Gurney's aid with a big rally and free fish fry in Jacksonville. Gurney has been pinning the sinister label, liberal, on Collins.

Countless of any strength are rare in this strange campaign. President Johnson and his administration are intensely unpopular in Florida and most of the South. Seikhan talking about the national ticket Collins is making a hard-hitting campaign charging Gurney with being in collusion with the go-go governor through the Gurney law firm and the business it does with Florida state authorities.

The fate of the South after this election is of far greater moment than the outcome of a contest so distorted by the revolution in race relations.

American Independent Party is a one-man band, a distant shout to see how Wallace could put together a party with state-wide candidates for the Senate and House.

Southern Democrats holding the powerful committee chairmanships in Congress are not going to surrender their privilege of dictating to government departments. In this way the South has grown fat with federal largesse. Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia has seen to it that his state is loaded down with military installations and defence plants. Alabama, top-heavy with space agency construction, is said to get two dollars back for every dollar of federal tax paid into the treasury.

Humphrey has talked a lot about the New South. He seriously considered the former governor of North Carolina, Terry Sanford, symbol of the New South, as his running mate. There may be a New South. It may lie beyond the probing of pollsters, the silent mass of Nixon talks about. But on the eve of the election with feeling so intense it is hard to find.

China Represents Political Puzzle

By DEV MURARKA from Moscow

SOVIET specialists are taking a more critical attitude to the current situation in China and conveying to their own public a very gloomy prognosis of the near future.

Politically the Russians do not see any alternative to Mao Tse-tung emerging in China short of a new revolution there. Economically, they are clearly worried about China's establishing closer ties with capitalist countries particularly Japan and West Germany. Japan now occupies the first place in China's trade with other countries while West Germany leads all the European countries in exports to Peking.

Soviet experts are coming round to the view that the end of the Red Guards as a singular political force is within sight and with it the end of the current phase of the "cultural revolution." This, however, is cold comfort for them since they do not believe that it will lead to any startling changes in Maoist strategy or political relaxation, either internally or externally.

On the contrary, in their view it will signify the ultimate triumph of the army over the party. They are firmly of the opinion that without the support of the army Mao never would have seen the end of the cultural revolution, which became uncontrollable for him soon after its inception. This may not be a very novel conclusion, but in retrospect appears to be sound if one is to explain the survival of Mao.

Currently the Russians are displaying greater interest in the contemplated ninth congress of the Communist Party of China. No one knows exactly when it will be held but Mao is planning it. For the Russians it will pose something of a dilemma. It will legitimize the policies as well as the authority of Mao. Therefore, the Russians are preparing the ground to reject the competence and legitimacy of the congress itself.

In their view it will be composed of the rift-ruff of the Red Guards and the army plus a few party members who have been rehabilitated during the last phase of the cultural revolution. The speculation is that 10,000 delegates will be nominated to this congress, all by the Maoist faction. Under the cloak of reorganizing the Communist Party the congress will provide Mao with a private army of his own. The signpost of the Communist Party will still be there, but it will no longer be one.

Investia, the Soviet government newspaper, has characterized these manoeuvres as "shameful."

The forthcoming Chinese Party Congress is thus bound to become a fresh source of ideological conflict within the communist camp. It may perhaps even finally bring round the Russians to declare without equivocation that Mao has ceased to be a Communist and by inference China has ceased to be a Communist country. Till now, although Soviet criticism of Mao Tse-tung has been sharp and he has been accused of deviating from communism and being a petit bourgeois ideologist without any Marxist convictions, they have not yet said he is no longer a Communist. The Soviet Union cannot challenge the legitimacy of Mao's hegemony over China without also declaring that China has ceased to be a Communist country, and this is a proposition which will be opposed by a wide section of the Communist movement, not to say some of the Communist countries like Yugoslavia, Romania and North Korea.

Soviet experts take some heart from the fact that within Mao's group there appears to be no agreement and tensions exist despite his appeals to bury differences. His slogan of "a great union of the three sides" (the Red Guards, the army, and part of the rehabilitated party officials) has met with a very cool response on all sides. In retrospect, however, the Soviet experts are lamenting that opposition to Mao Tse-tung never got itself organized in time to defeat him. When it did wake up to the real danger it was already too late. One expert, L. Delyusin, has argued that the opposition "had no common plan of action nor any clear-out political program as Mao's line, on the basis of which they could appeal to the people to come out in determined defence of the party and revolutionary gains."

If the political outlook in China is depressing enough from the Soviet viewpoint, the economic outlook is no brighter, so there is no hope that political stability might be helped by economic recovery. Soviet experts have concluded that, just as after the Great Leap Forward, China's economic progress has suffered as a consequence of the cultural revolution. The third Five Year Plan, launched in 1966, has been disrupted and the party and managerial cadres which would have looked after economic affairs have been dealt a heavy blow. The Russians also conclude that the Chinese economy has become more dependent upon the capitalist countries, since China began to curtail her trade with other Communist countries.

Russian observers believe that although China's foreign trade involves only a small proportion of her economy it plays an important role in helping her to acquire the tools of industrialization. This process, however, has also been the victim of the political zigzags of Mao, and foreign trade has suffered as a result. Only in 1967 did it recover enough to reach the level of 1969. Apart from Albania, Romania and North Vietnam, China has slashed her trade with all the other Communist countries, most drastically with the Soviet Union.

Among the developing countries China has worthwhile commercial ties only with Pakistan, Malaysia, Singapore, Cambodia and Hong Kong, in Asia, and the United Arab Republic, Morocco and the Sudan in Africa. The Russians also say that China is losing about $100 million every year through dumping operations in some of these countries.

What annoys and alarms the Russians most are the ties growing between Peking and Bonn. The Russians are all the more disturbed about this since these ties are beginning to acquire political overtones and Moscow fears the very notion of a Bonn-Peking axis. The Russians claim that Bonn has sold arms and munitions to Peking which come under the category of strategic materials. The Chinese are also reported to have invited a West German delegation of missile experts for a visit. The Russians are afraid that Bonn is pursuing a deliberate strategy of playing off Peking against Moscow and that in the long run it spells danger for the Soviet Union.

Nation Thrives Under Wise Policies

Kenyatta's Vice-President Favored to Win Succession

By ALAN CHESTER, from Nairobi, Kenya

One of the first questions asked by political analysts during a study of Kenya is: "What will happen when Kenyatta goes?"

It is a question which signifies the regard, almost reverence, in which this elderly statesman is held. For at 76, he is still the tough, unchallenged leader of Kenya, the stabilizing factor around whom the whole political and economic future of the country revolves.

President Jomo Kenyatta is probably the most powerful leader in Africa today — and the most moderate.

Although a proud member of the dominant Kikuyu tribe, he has turned the country away from tribalism and molded it into a prosperous, stable nation; his tolerance — in the face of extremist policies in many other parts of the continent — has made Kenya a model country, both racially and economically.

While several emergent states are moving closer to the eastern bloc, and following the communist line of mass appropriation or nationalization, Kenya has struck rigidly to its friendship with the West, its cold disdain for communism, and belief that free enterprise, backed by a sound multiracial society, leads to quicker development and progress.

Millions of dollars a year pour in from the United States, Britain and West Germany in the form of aid and investment, showing the deep confidence these countries have in Kenya.

And it is all due to that one man: President Jomo Kenyatta. Although now aged, appears to be strengthening his prestige and political hold over the country's destiny.

Despite his age, there appears little political threat to Kenyatta.

Three political parties have risen in opposition to his

By RITCHIE W. McEWEEN From Vienna

Albania, Red China's diminutive and sole ally on the continent of Europe, may be the Soviet Union's next military target.

While the current buildup of Russian forces, on land in the Balkans and at sea in the Mediterranean, might conceivably be aimed at a number of targets — such as Romania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia — it now is widely believed that Albania is next on the list for "normalization."

Up to 1961, the Russians occupied the strategic naval base at Valona Bay in southern Albania. The picturesque little port, nothing more than a small fishing village, was leased by the Soviet Union from Albania in 1953, and turned into a formidable naval base capable of handling warships up to 10,000 tons.

At the entrance to the wide bay of Valona, the rocky island of Saseno was turned into a submarine base, with bombproof shelters, blasted into the cliffs, providing berths for a dozen or more submarines.

At the beginning of 1961, the Albanian government began its flirtation with Red China, and relations between the Soviet Union and Albania began to deteriorate rapidly.

The 10,000 Russian naval base personnel became virtually stranded. The single daily train running from Valona Bay to Tirana, the Albanian capital, was stopped frequently and made to turn back. The Albanians refused to supply the base with fresh meat and vegetables.

Soviet Embassy officials were followed by Albanian secret service agents wherever they went.

Two Albanian officials were arrested and executed for "collaboration" with the Russians.

Finally, relations between the two countries were severed, and the Soviet Union prepared to evacuate the naval base in a hurry. Much of the equipment and installations had to be left behind. The Albanians also managed to prevent the sailing of two Soviet submarines — now the pride of Albania's tiny navy.

Not only are the Russians eager to settle accounts with little Albania, with its ill-trained, poorly armed military forces totaling fewer than 100,000 men, but the Soviet leaders are also anxious to put an end to the intensive propaganda organ led by Red China against the Soviet Union.

In the Albanian capital, the Chinese have built a modern printing plant for the dissemination of pamphlets and leaflets in languages spoken in the Russian-dominated East European bloc. A powerful radio transmitter, capable of being heard even in Moscow, is nearing completion. Yet a third, and subsidiary reason for invading Albania is that by doing so, the ring drawn around President Tito's Yugoslavia would become even tighter.

Rumors of Russian intentions regarding Albania are further strengthened by reports from military and naval circles in the Balkans that since September the Soviet naval forces and specially trained units of the Red Army have been training intensively in the Black Sea for a full-scale landing on the Albanian coast.

A successful invasion of Albania would largely depend on an attack from the sea, for an invasion by land forces would either have to pass through Yugoslavia or Greece. The country's only airport, at Tirana, offers little opportunity for landing any considerable force by air. In this rocky and mountainous country, there is virtually nowhere that gliders could crash land with any chance of moving in troops without prohibitive casualties.

Israel Financial Threat

Rich Lebanon Fears Peace

By REMBERT JAMES From Tel Aviv

Lebanon is being viewed in Israel as the Arab nation most opposed to a real peace settlement in the Middle East.

"Everybody in Beirut would go broke if real peace ever came and Israel had a chance to grow into the business and money center it is capable of becoming," one Israeli remarked. "All the Lebanese know that."

This appraisal may be exaggerated, but not by much. The Lebanese have almost no army. For over 15 years they have avoided military clashes with the Israelis.

Lebanon is a nation interested in commerce and finance. It is entirely true that peace and stability which would allow Israel to trade freely with Arab nations would have a catastrophic effect on the Lebanese economy.

The idea of Lebanon, a nation that could not fight its way out of a paper bag, being most opposed to peace seems contradictory almost to the point of fantasy. Yet it is only another way of saying that nothing in the Middle East is a simple problem, and seldom are things what they seem.

A year ago peace in the Middle East seemed to the United Nations Security Council a problem that might yield to a simple formula. The formula was this:

Israel would withdraw from occupied territory seized from the Arabs in the six-day war of June, 1967, and help settle the Palestinian refugee problem.

The Arabs would call off their 20-year state of belligerency, recognize Israel, and respect its right to live with secure boundaries, and let Israeli ships pass freely through the Suez Canal and the Gulf of Aqaba.

But peace is not simple in the Middle East.

If anything important has changed in a year, it is that Russia has penetrated further into the Middle East, resending most of the war material lost by the Egyptians and Syrians to the Israelis.

Polarization of the region — with the Arabs mostly in Russia's camp, and the Israelis looking to America for support — has grown more and more evident.

It is a region where ordinary reasoning and rationalizations do not work.

Perhaps it is appropriate that in a world where fantasy has more acceptance than reason, Lebanon should be described as the No. 1 opponent of peace.

— who also holds the portfolio for Home Affairs — taking over in the event of Kenyatta's retirement.

Moi is from the minority Tugen tribe. Such a move probably would appease all members of the more dominant Kikuyu, Luo and Kamba tribes.

Kenyatta had a mild stroke about three months ago, and this prodded Parliament to introduce and pass new legislation dealing with presidential succession. Although he was up and about within a week, it seemed to wake many people to the fact that the old man could be sick, and would not go on forever.

The new bill provides for the vice-president to take over in the event of the president's retirement or death, although there must be a nationwide presidential poll within 90 days. Such a poll at present would almost certainly return the popular Moi.

But Kenyatta has no intention of bowing out for many years yet. He is as popular now as he has ever been, and he dismisses rumors with the same shrug that he fends off political challenge.

Negotiated Settlement Now Possible

Biafrans Hold Line

LAST OF A SERIES

For the first time since the Biafra-Nigeria war began 18 months ago, it seems that there will be a negotiated settlement.

Negotiation was out of the question while the Biafran army, without weapons, was on the run, giving up most of the territory to the Nigerians. But now, with arms coming in, the Biafrans seem to be holding the line and creating a stalemate in the war.

The arguments favoring a negotiated settlement are these:

● There can be no total victory or total defeat in this war.

● The Nigerians may have gone as far as they can go against a Biafran army that has its back to the wall and is getting equipped with more and better weapons.

● The Nigerians don't want to push for a final military solution, which would produce two problems.

By RON COLLISTER

From Umuahia, Biafra

Special to the Colonist

One, the problem of feeding the starving millions in Biafra would become a problem for the Lagos government.

Two, without a negotiated settlement, the Nigerians would face decades of guerrilla warfare in the jungle.

The Biafran head of state, Colonel Ojukwu, says he wants a negotiated settlement. He believes it would happen within three months if the United Nations would impose embargoes on arms to both sides in the conflict.

The conflict, he told me, cannot be solved by military means. And as long as the Nigerian federal government believed it could get a military solution, there was no hope of peace. "I think, however, that there are forces in Nigeria that would bring themselves to bear more on General Gowon, the federal leader, the longer the war gets."

"When they feel the frustration of not being able to finish off the war, they will think more seriously about peace," Col. Ojukwu said.

Dr. Herman Middelkoop, the representative here of the World Council of Churches, rules out a quick military solution. "With a political settlement, this will develop into endless guerrilla warfare," he predicts.

A Canadian lay missionary,

Ron McGraw of Regina, Sask., says there will be no settlement along the lines of one Nigeria.

"I think there is a possibility of a compromise, with Biafra responsible for its own security and in control of an area that is economically viable," he said.

"Then I think there can be some compromise. But there can be no compromise in terms of one Nigeria: Nigerian unity is dead and to try to bring these people back together is going to be a hopeless task."

General Gowon, the Nigerian federal leader, is now far behind his schedule for winning the war and crushing the Biafran rebellion.

If the stalemate continues, with world opinion now veering in its desire for peace and relief for the starving millions, a negotiated settlement is inevitable.

And the prayer and hope here, in this besieged town rapidly falling into decay, is that it will come soon.

Sacred Resolutions ListedCar Insurance to Pollution Control

By IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

VANCOUVER — A proposal for compulsory, no-fault auto insurance to be instituted in British Columbia tops the list of resolutions to be placed before the two-day Social Credit convention which opens here today.

A party spokesman predicted

Thursday night there will be close to 1,000 delegates present, making it the biggest convention in the history of the provincial party.

Interest has already been heightened by previously publicized resolutions calling for resignation of Premier George Driedger and establishment of machinery for succession of the leadership after Premier Bennett.

TWO RESOLUTIONS

There are actually two resolutions urging compulsory car insurance, one, submitted by Alberni constituency association, merely refers to injustices in the present system. But another from Peace River South essentially outlines the recommendations in the Wootton royal commission on car insurance.

A resolution from Kootenay abolishing fines for minor traffic offences, now being tried out in Greater Victoria before it is extended to the rest of the province, creates an undue hardship on municipalities. It calls for the government to either reinstate the fines or make up the financial loss suffered by the municipalities.

THREE-MAN BOARD

Vancouver Centre has submitted a resolution urging the government to institute a three-man Liquor Control Board when Col. Donald McGugan retires next April 1. Attorney General Leslie Peterson has recently stated he favors the continuation of the present single-commissioner system.

University of B.C. Students want delegates to approve the lowering the present legal drinking age from 21 to 19 years. The campus group has also submitted a resolution calling on the government to increase aid to higher education in the province "to figure reasonably with increased costs."

ANTI-POLLUTION

Several other resolutions call for tougher anti-pollution laws and new restrictions on septic tanks. A resolution from Victoria Socials urges delegates to give the convention's "compliments, congratulations and encouragement" to Health Minister Ralph Lottmark.

The resolution said Mr. Lottmark deserves praise and support for "his timely, courageous and forward-looking plans and efforts in the interest of public health for effectively and firmly regulating and controlling operations causing water, land or air pollution." It added the health minister's aim was to "secure the eventual elimination of such pollution."

FLUORIDATION MOVE

Other resolutions called for making fluoridation of the water supply illegal or in one case to reject mass medication and provide fluoride tablets and drops free to those who wish to use them. There is a proposal, from Surrey, for the government to consider a proper plan for a rapid transit system to take priority over freeways.

IMMEDIATE MOVE

A number of Social Credit League resolutions submitted by various constituency associations deplored the lack of communication between the government and rank and file party members and suggested more expert help be hired to correct this situation.

Tonight will see delegates discuss the proposal, submitted by Surrey Constituency association, that Mr. Driedger be replaced as president immediately. It said "we express dissatisfaction with the current league president." A counter resolution from Point Grey calls for a vote of confidence in the party president.

There are three resolutions in

Two Die In Trial

USLAR, West Germany (CP) — Two members of the Royal 22nd Regiment died accidentally while taking part in a two-week exercise in which Canada's NATO brigade formed part of a British division.

Manoeuvres By NATO 'Routine'

NAPLES (UPI) — The North Atlantic Treaty Organization announced Thursday that more than 20 western ships and a number of planes will join forces next Tuesday in a mass exercise in the Mediterranean sea where Soviet warships present a growing challenge to American supremacy.

The exercise comes as the Soviets are reported to have built their Mediterranean fleet to about 60 ships and as tensions between Arabs and Israelis are again near the flash point.

However, sources in NATO said the exercise, combining forces of the United States, Greece, Italy, Britain and France, was an annual routine affair planned for several months.

Socreds

charged that opposition parties — "with full support and co-operation of all news media" — are trying to cause dissension within the government by claiming there is a move afoot to replace Mr. Bennett.

"This is a deliberate campaign to cause friction with out leadership," Mr. Peterson said. "The opposition knows that as long as we have our present leadership in the person of Premier Bennett they haven't got a hope in Hades."

'EYE TEETH'
"And there is not any political party in the province that would not give their eye teeth to have him (Mr. Bennett) as their leader."

"No man has greater faith in the future of our province. There is no greater builder than our premier."

Mr. Bennett is expected to receive an overwhelming vote of confidence from the convention, which party officials claim will draw 1,000 delegates from all parts of the province to the Bayshore Inn.

ATTACK ON GRITS

In his annual "state of Social Credit" address, which this year is being broadcast live on several Lower Mainland and Victoria radio stations starting at 11 a.m. the premier is expected to attack the Liberals for their claim last month that a poll showed the party was now in second spot, ahead of the NDP in B.C. He will also develop the youth image concept within the party.

George Friediger, 35-year-old president of the B.C. Social Credit who is under heavy attack at this convention with one resolution calling for his immediate resignation, told the women's auxiliary Thursday Socreds would be surprised at how many young people support this free enterprise government.

"All of us are getting a little older," said Mr. Friediger. "Some of us have already had our day. We all eventually must step aside to allow someone younger to take our place. We must invite young people to join, not to take over but to play a necessary part in the future of the party."

CAN BE WON OVER

He said activities on B.C. university campuses can be won over to Social Credit if they can be convinced that they must accept responsibility for their actions.

Mr. Friediger said the party's finances are in the black, for the fifth consecutive year since he became president, but stuck with his previous statements that no information regarding finances or party membership would be made public "to bring comfort to our enemies."

Afterwards, however, the women's auxiliary delegates were told their membership had slipped from 850 a year ago to 725.

MUST LISTEN

Education Minister Donald Brothers in a luncheon speech told the women delegates he felt students in universities, whether in Canada or the U.S., "do have legitimate beefs and it is necessary that we listen to them."

But he added that students often launch protests without really knowing what they want. He said a recent trip to California convinced him that although student radicalism is losing ground it would be wrong to become complacent because the extremists are becoming desperate and will cause new outbreaks in the next few months.

Senate Study Uncovers Two-Cent Mail Floor

OTTAWA (CP) — A late clarification of the new postal rates applying to newspapers and periodicals after next April 1 has disclosed a two-cent minimum charge on all individual mailings.

The provision came to light Wednesday night when a Senate committee examined the government's postal legislation.

'NOBODY ASKED'
Senator Gratton O'Leary (PC-Ontario) suggested that Postmaster-General Eric Kierans had concealed the provision when the bill was considered in the Commons.

Mr. Kierans said the problem was that "nobody in the Opposition asked me . . ."

Until Wednesday, it was generally understood that rates for newspapers and periodicals after April 1 would be based only on their weight.

ONE LABEL
By this formula, rates for daily newspapers are to go to five cents a pound for the non-advertising portion and 15 cents a pound for the advertising. The changes are to be carried out in three six-monthly stages beginning next April 1.

Notwithstanding the formula, a two-cent minimum is applied on every newspaper of periodical, or groups of more than one bundled under one label to an individual subscriber.

The language of the bill on this point is that "the minimum postage for a piece of mail consisting of one or more Canadian newspapers or Canadian periodicals . . . is two cents."

A post office spokesman said that mail deliveries of two or three newspapers are commonly made to individual persons. They would qualify as a "piece of mail."

MORE THAN POUND
Thus, a newspaper weighing more than one pound must carry postage of at least five cents, depending on the distribution of its advertising and non-advertising content.

But for newspapers of less than one pound, the content will not matter if it produces a rate of less than two cents. The two-cent minimum will apply.

The clarification was made when the Senate sent the bill to its communications committee and Mr. Kierans was examined by committee members.

Earlier, Senator O'Leary had said in the Senate that the two-cent minimum went into effect at once, and his statement was not challenged. The Canadian Press erroneously reported that the minimum goes into effect Nov. 1.

Farm Loan Fund Enlarged
OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons approved changes in the Farm Credit Act Thursday that will permit the lending of an additional $400,000,000 for long-term farm loans.

The bill got third reading only after the government turned aside an opposition attempt to return it to committee study, the stage between second and third reading.

The motion by Alf Gleave (NDP-Saskatoon-Biggar) was defeated 122 to 76 with only the government voting against. The bill itself was approved 122 to 78.

Scientist Dies
KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Dr. Robin O'Connell, prominent Canadian radio astronomer, has died suddenly at his home. He was 38.

Many Shun Canadian Citizenship
OTTAWA (CP) — Possibly more than 1,000,000 residents of Canada have not taken out citizenship papers even though they are eligible to do so, Ross Martin, citizenship registrar, told a Commons committee Thursday.

Asked by Robert Stanbury (L-York-Scarborough) whether the figure was about 1,000,000, Martin said it "might be a bit more." No firm figures were available.

Stanbury asked whether the size of the figure was related to voting privileges extended to British subjects, under which they could vote without taking "the minimal step of commitment to our country."

Martin said this was probably a fair statement.

Kamloops Third Casualty

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Kamloops became the third casualty of a dispute between the Canadian Union of Public Employees and 13 Okanagan Valley municipalities Thursday when its 188 civic workers struck.

They joined 100 workers in Kelowna, who have been out since Oct. 24, and 150 Vernon municipal workers who have been out since Sept. 24.

In Penticton, 108 workers have applied for a government-supervised strike vote.

Parts of Lost Sub Spotted

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a five-month search, the U.S. Navy announced Thursday it has spotted pieces of the missing nuclear-powered submarine Scorpion about two miles down on the floor of the Atlantic.

Admiral Thomas H. Moorer, chief of naval operations, said: "Objects identified as portions of the hull of the submarine USS Scorpion have been located about 400 miles southwest of the Azores in more than 10,000 feet of water."

The find was reported Wednesday night by a navy oceanographic research ship, the Mizar, which has been searching the bottom with underwater cameras, magnetic sensors and sonar gear.

"Mizar reports that the submarine's location has been confirmed by means of remotely-controlled photography," Moorer said.

The pressure at 10,000 feet is about 4,400 pounds per square inch, compared with 14.7 pounds at sea level. The Scorpion would have been crushed like an eggshell long before sinking to such depths.

The submarine, with 99 officers and men aboard, was last heard from in a radio message May 21 when it was about 250 miles south of the Azores en route to Norfolk, Va., after a year of duty in the Mediterranean.

Navy officers said the location where the remains were located is some 300 miles closer to Norfolk on the Scorpion's planned route.

The navy said the Mizar is remaining on the scene in an effort to locate and photograph additional parts of Scorpion's hull.

"It is hoped that new evidence will enable the navy to ascertain the cause of the loss," Moorer said.

The search for the $40,000,000 submarine began on May 27 when the Scorpion failed to surface near Norfolk, as scheduled.

Why do young men pay twice as much for car insurance?

Because they have twice as many accidents as other drivers. Added to that, their accident costs are much higher.

These are the facts. Unfortunately—but true.

These figures can be changed, and so can the cost of insurance for younger male drivers.

There is only one way; by reducing their accident rate.

Even though younger men pay a lot more for insurance, they have the same opportunities as other drivers to reduce their own insurance costs.

One accident-free year can bring a 15% reduction.

Three accident-free years and the savings are substantial. And those who pass approved driver training courses can obtain a further 10% reduction.

If more younger men take advantage of these dividends by driving safely, the cost will be lower for everyone.

Landmark Replacement

Landmark Toronto-Dominion Bank Building at Johnson and Douglas will be demolished next January to make way for this six-storey, $2,000,000 replacement being built by bank. The present 10-storey structure is 56 years old and was once tallest in city. New block is to be opened in January, 1970.

U.S. Oil Stand Aids Canada

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Canadian oil producers are using preferential import control treatment by the United States to gain an advantage over U.S. producers, Harold McCure, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, said Thursday.

At the same time, he said, "unlimited" imports of cheap crude oil from the Middle East and Venezuela into Eastern Canada are harming American oil producers and weakening North American defence.

PRODUCERS' GROUP

Mr. McCure, whose association represents about 6,000 independent producers in the United States, told 200 delegates at the seventh annual conference of the Ontario Petroleum Institute Inc. that Canada and the United States should reduce their dependence on foreign oil supplies.

He said North America's oil needs could easily be supplied from Middle East and North African oil fields. But, as the 1967 crisis in the Middle East showed, it was essential to develop and maintain an oil supply under North American control.

IMPORT CONTROLS

To this end, the United States had introduced import controls in 1959 and Canada received preferential treatment allowing import into the United States of a quota of Canadian oil, 300,000 barrels a day being allowed across the border in the region east of the Rockies.

The controls had benefited the U.S. and Canadian oil industries economically. In the 10 years since controls were introduced Canadian oil production had risen to 474,000 barrels a day from 97,000.

However, the U.S. government had not intended preferential treatment for Canadian oil to work to the economic disadvantage of U.S. producers.

Powerful Churchill Falls Keyed on Quebec Hydro

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

Details of one of the world's largest hydro-electric contracts were given by Donald Gordon, president of Churchill Falls Labrador Corp. Ltd., at a special general meeting of British Newfoundland Corp. Ltd. (BRINCO), in Montreal Thursday.

The electricity from Churchill Falls for a period of 40 years will be sold to Quebec Hydro at a cost of between $3,200,000,000 and $3,720,000,000, with an additional $1,575,000,000 from a further 25-year extension of the contract.

FULL OUTPUT

Quebec Hydro will take all the Churchill output once the needs of Newfoundland are satisfied.

Brinco is the parent company of Churchill Falls, by its 64-per cent share holding.

The deal will enable Quebec Hydro to delay temporarily expansion of its own generating plants at a time when interest rates are high.

TEJO TO MERGE

Three companies whose shares trade actively on the Vancouver Stock Exchange have plans to merge.

All three have natural resources interests in west central Alberta and have interlocking boards.

They are Bata Resources, Stampede Oil and Galaxy Copper.

Richard Lennie of Vancouver is vice-president of all three, and Murray Pezdim is president of two — Bata and Galaxy.

If approved, the new company will be United Bata with 7,750,015 shares outstanding. The shares will be exchanged with Bata Resources on a one-for-one basis, with Stampede two-for-one and with Galaxy one-to-two.

DEMAND IMPROVES

The domestic demand for chemicals is improving, according to Du Pont of Canada which increased its net income for the first nine months to $8,993,000 (1.12) from $7,950,000 (99 cents) a year ago.

Products selling better in the domestic market are nylon yarns, acrylic fibre and petroleum chemicals, says the company.

MONEY TURNS EASIER

Demand for government of Canada 91-day treasury bills was stronger at this week's auction. The average yield dropped to 5.57 per cent from 5.66 per cent a week ago, and on the 182-day bills, the yield was 5.66 per cent against 4.77 per cent a week ago.

GAS POPULAR

The demand for natural gas in Ontario will triple by 1985, according to an official of the Ontario Energy Board.

During the same period the demand for all types of energy will double.

Most of Ontario's natural gas is moved from Western Canada by Trans Canada Pipeline. A small quantity is recovered locally from under Lake Erie and the rest is imported from the U.S.

Atlantic Richfield, one of the two U.S. oil companies which recently made the fabulous oil discovery on the north Alaska slope, has arranged to merge with Sinclair Oil, another U.S. oil company.

Both stocks added about three points in trading on New York Stock Exchange Thursday, although the merger decision was not announced until after the close of the market.

Most Profits Up

The following Canadian companies have just announced their net profits and earnings per share for the nine-month period to Sept. 30. The comparisons are with figures for the corresponding period of 1967:

NET EARNINGS (In Millions)		9 mths—1968	9 mths—1967

Ottawa Ready to Talk On U.S. Corn Import

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson said Thursday the government is prepared to continue discussions with the U.S. on "compensation or whatever it wishes to discuss" in relation to imports of American corn.

He was replying in the Commons to Arnold Peters (NDP—Timiskaming) who asked whether the government will stick by the commitment it made Wednesday.

Olson announced Tuesday that U.S. corn cannot be imported into Canada at less than $1.05 a bushel in U.S. funds.

He said Thursday his announcement is government policy until it is changed.

Peters quoted U.S. Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman as saying that no corn agreement had been made with Canada.

Olson said he had not stated there was an agreement. There had been negotiations.

Concorde to Fly Before '69

PARIS (UPI)—The maiden flight of the Anglo-French supersonic Concorde jetliner will take place before the end of the year, French aviation sources said Thursday.

The sources said the first flight of the Concorde would last only between 35 and 40 minutes at about 10,000 feet, flying at about 300 miles per hour.

The Concorde was wheeled out of its hangar Thursday morning for routine tests on air conditioning, pressure and temperature control systems.

Big-League Crime Seattle-Bound?

SEATTLE (AP) — State Attorney-General John O'Connell said Wednesday that Meyer Lansky, nationally known gambling figure, came to Seattle last March a month after voters approved a $40,000,000 bond issue for a major league sports stadium.

O'Connell also said his investigation of alleged vice conditions in the area has led him to estimate that the total gross for all commercial gambling operations in Seattle and King County now exceeds $30,000,000 per year.

"COOSA NOSTRA TIES"

In a statement issued to news media, O'Connell, Democratic candidate for governor, described Lansky as "a notorious vice figure from Miami, Fla., who has direct ties with the Cosa Nostra."

The attorney-general said Lansky, who pleaded guilty to five counts of gambling and conspiracy in February, 1953, "now controls vice in the southeastern United States and the Bahamas, including big-time sports gambling."

"I believe the timing of Lansky's visit to Seattle is extremely significant. In February the stadium bond issue was approved... the very next month Lansky arrived in Seattle."

CARD-PLAYING

"Seattle is big league in sports, in business and in population. It is fast becoming big league in crime."

Earlier this month The Seattle Times published articles about O'Connell's card playing in Las Vegas, Nev. The attorney-general confirmed he had established a $10,000 "line of credit" at a hotel there in 1965.

O'Connell has said the articles were aimed at halting his crime probe and has alleged they were instigated by his opponent, Gov. Dan Evans. Evans denied the allegation.

Flight to Tragedy Triggers Sequence

COLD FISH LAKE, B.C. (CP) — The Albatross went to help the Cessna.

Then a Labrador helicopter went to help the Albatross and the Cessna. And now, two more helicopters are on the way to help the Albatross, the Cessna and the Labrador.

The strange sequence of events started with a tragedy Oct. 17 at this lake, 630 miles north of Vancouver. A Cessna, with two Wenatchee, Wash., men, Merrill Rose and Ralph Hobson, failed to turn up on a flight to Smithers.

The following day a float was spotted on a bank at Cold Fish Lake and the bodies of the two men were found. There was no trace of their aircraft.

The Canadian Forces Albatross, a fixed-wing amphibian, flew to the lake the following day to pick up the bodies. But during the takeoff one of its propellers was damaged, grounding it.

The Labrador helicopter brought in a new propeller along with mechanics and other men. On a second flight into the lake with supplies, it crashed while attempting to land, though its three-man crew escaped injury.

Now, more Labradors are on the way to help out. The Albatross finally made it out earlier this week, but there were still 11 men and a helicopter stranded at the remote lake Thursday night.

The bodies of the two Wenatchee men were taken out several days ago by Beaver aircraft.

Death Decreed In Absentia

PORT AU PRINCE (AP) — A Haitian military tribunal issued death sentences in absentia to former president Paul Magloire, Luc Pouché, Haiti's former ambassador to the United States, and Raymond Joseph, a New York exile leader. All are accused of having plotted an abortive invasion and bombing attack May 20 on the palace of President Francois Duvalier.

Here's beauty the other economy cars can only envy.

Not only that. Acadian offers you "automatic" shifting for only $81.05*!

Just look at its looks. Beautiful Acadian is one low-priced car that will never keep reminding you it's a low-priced car. It drives, responds and handles like it should carry a much higher price tag. So try it. See your dealer and drive one around the block. You'll soon agree that an Acadian test drive is a really moving experience. Engine choices range from 140-hp standard six and 200-hp standard V8 through an optional 155-hp six and three optional V8s topped off with a mighty 300-hp "SS"! There are no fewer than six transmission choices—including Torque Drive (see following) and a new 3-speed automatic you can order with any engine, six or V8. And that's barely the beginning; when it comes to "choice", the economy buyer never had it so wide as with the new Acadian!

Torque Drive—a GM Exclusive! Here's a new kind of transmission just for the thrifty-conscious people who prefer 6-cylinder engines. There is no clutch pedal. You simply shift from "low" to "high" as required. And it costs less than half the cost of a regular "full" automatic. Yet GM's Torque Drive can be compared with standard manual transmissions when it comes to operating economy! Ask your dealer for details.

*Manufacturer's suggested maximum retail price including Federal and Excise taxes; provincial and local taxes extra.

'Too Much Said'

Spy Case in Austria Put Under Wraps Until Hearing Held

VIENNA (AP) — Interior Minister Franz Soronics of Austria said Thursday the case of Josef Adamek, 42-year-old editorial secretary of federal press service arrested last week as a suspected spy, is in the hands of the state prosecutor and will be kept secret until he goes to trial.

"No more information will be available in the interest of security," Soronics said. "Too much has been said already."

DISCLOSURE
Soronics apparently was referring to the disclosure Wednesday by a West German government spokesman who said Adamek's arrest threw suspicion on a Czechoslovak news agency correspondent in Bonn now under investigation.

Austrian security officials apparently felt the Bonn case revealed counter-intelligence cooperation between neutral Austria and West Germany.

For 25 years before his retirement, Mr. Wilson was associated with Canadian Industries Ltd. on James Island.

Anxiety Grips Vatican

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul's council of cardinals held one of its rare meetings Thursday. It took place against a background of spreading disobedience in the Roman Catholic Church and a sudden gigantic tax burden for the Vatican.

Word of the closed-door session, only the second meeting of the council since the Pope set it up last year, touched off reports of a growing emergency atmosphere.

A brief announcement said only that the meeting took place.

The immediate speculation was that it was called to consider how to deal with the growing wave of defiance among lay people and some priests against Pope Paul's encyclical of July 25 banning any form of artificial or chemical contraception.

Humphrey Talks of 'Miracle'

Nixon Certain of One Vote

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Republican Richard Nixon voted for himself Thursday and then hurried back to the presidential campaign trail to urge other Americans to do the same on election day Tuesday.

But Vice-President Hubert Humphrey said Nixon is "taking the American people for granted" and talked of a "miracle" that would give Humphrey the presidency.

Meanwhile, George Wallace waffled on whether a U.S. bombing pause in the Vietnam war on the eve of the election would be interpreted as a political trick. He concluded it would not be so interpreted by him because he did not have inside information.

Nixon, his wife and daughter Ticks all marked absentee ballots in their New York City apartment prior to a nationally televised Madison Square Garden rally and departure on his last campaign swing—through Nixon's native state of California and President Johnson's Texas.

All three candidates, in fact, were concentrating their efforts in the big, densely-populated states in the final days of the campaign.

Nixon didn't say exactly how he marked his ballot—"that's confidential information"—but left no doubt that he had at least one vote nailed down.

Meanwhile, across the Hudson River in Newark, N.J., Humphrey described Nixon as "the man who specializes in the doctrine of unemployment" and who refuses to debate on many issues, including the Vietnam war.

The latest polls indicate that although Humphrey has been gaining steadily on Nixon, it would take almost a miracle to give Humphrey the prize.

In Hagerstown, Md., Wallace first said that "I pray and hope that whatever the president does is successful in bringing an honorable conclusion to the hostilities (in Vietnam) and I couldn't care less who gets the credit."

But later, he said it would be "unfortunate" if a bombing halt "comes right on the eve of the election." There were those—not including himself—who would say it was "politically inspired."

As is usual, the third-party candidate's rally produced some violence and when a thrown whisky bottle struck two young women he shouted:

"Throw rocks at me if you want, but don't throw rocks at little girls, you hear that?"

International TV Talk Proposed

TORONTO (CP)—The International Television Federation has proposed that the new president of the United States be interviewed by questioners in the U.S., England, Canada and Australia.

Eugene Hallman, vice-president and general manager of the CBC English network, said Thursday the proposal has been made to both major U.S. presidential candidates.

Hallman, who acted as deputy chairman at a three-day meeting of the "InterTel" council this week in New York, said the proposed interview entails the possible use of communications satellites.

UVic Teams Poised For Busy Weekend

By KEVAN HULL

Vikings soccer team, one of the two clubs to bring the University of Victoria a Western Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Association championship in its first season as an associate member, completes its travel schedule this weekend.

Vikings, who are in their third season under head coach Wally Milligan leave this morning for a two-game trip to Seattle today and tomorrow against Seattle University and the University of Washington.

The WICAA title came two weekends ago at Regina where the Vikings emerged with a 4-1 won-lost record in the six-team round-robin competition.

Milligan, who learned his football in Scotland before coming to the Pacific Coast Soccer League as a player and later coach of Victoria United, praised the play of halfbacks Dave Swanson, Jack Magi and Joe Milligan in the championship effort.

Magi, who played with a bad knee injury, was unfortunate in the lone Viking loss, 0-1, to the defending champions from Winnipeg, scoring in his own goal past keeper Dave Achurch.

Rounding out the squad were Kevin Costain, Tony Gage, Keith Humphrey, Mike Salls, Gregg Pearson, Glen Myles, Rick Baldwin, Stew Finlayson, Pete Songhurst and John Pennington.

"The team has a great spirit this season," the coach said. "Once we finish with this weekend's trip we'll be concentrating on bringing the university its first Victoria district first-division championship."

The women's field hockey team, which shares the WICAA title with UBC after tying with seven-win, one-tie records, also plays this weekend, but at home.

J.H. Kelly's charges met the University's junior varsity

LEAGUE GAMES

While the Viking soccer club is away this weekend, both the Norsemen and junior varsity play at home. The juniors meet B.C. Institute of Technology in junior intercollegiate league play at Gordon Head at 1 p.m. Saturday while the Norsemen play Victoria West in a second-division district league match Sunday at 2 p.m.

Also traveling this weekend is the Viking hockey club, which plays exhibition games against UBC Thunderbirds in Vancouver today and Saturday.

All three rugby teams see action Saturday. Vikings meet Vancouver Trojans in an exhibition match at Gordon Head Junior High School at 2 p.m. Norsemen meet James Bay Barbarians at Gordon Head Campus at 2 p.m. following the 12:30 B.C. junior league game between Saxons and UBC Frosh.

OTHER ACTIVITY

The Viking basketball squad starts play this weekend, meeting the Harlem Glows at the gymnasium at 3 p.m. on Saturday. Admission is $1.50 for adults and $1.00 for students.

In men's field hockey, the Vandalis play hosts to Victoria Tigers Sunday at 2 p.m.

The women's track team participates in the first half of a telegraphic meet against WICAA member University of Saskatchewan Saturday. Second half will take place the following weekend.

Colonist Cup At Stake

Today's Inter-High School

Senior Soccer playoff championship for the Colonist Cup between a league-champion Mount View Hornets and second-place finishers Clarendon takes place at University of Victoria's Centennial Stadium starting at 2:30 p.m.

Winnipeg will advance to the Vancouver Island final where a win would put them into the B.C. high school championship final which will be hosted this year by the Island representative.

Archer, Barber Share Lead As 44 Golfers Crack Par

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Towering George Archer and baiding, bespectacled Miller Barber led a par-breaking barrage in the first round of the $100,000 Lucky International Open golf tournament Thursday, tying for the lead with five under par66s.

No fewer than 44 golfers cracked the par-71 over the 6,777-yard Harding Park course on a sunny but cool day as many of the country's top golfers fought for the $20,000 first prize in the four-day tournament.

Tied behind Archer and Barber of Sherman, Tenn., with rounds of 67 were Doug Sanders, Jack Fleck, Dave Stockton and Frank Boynton.

Billy Camper, the pro golf tour's leading money winner who can clear the $300,000 mark by winning the tournament, was tied at 68 with eight others, including Don MacGregor, Bruce Crampton, Bob Rosburg and Dow Finsterwald.

Al Baiding and George Knudson, both of Toronto, were well back of the leaders. Baiding had a 35-36-71 and Knudson a 36-37-73.

U.S. open winner Lee Trevino shot a 70 and was in a long list of golfers who had that score, including Chi Chi Rodriguez and Bob Lunn.

Rosburg blew a chance for the early lead when he followed a front-nine score of 32 with a 36 and Kermit Zarley blew sky dies on the seventh, eighth, ninth and 19th holes and then after twice going one over birdied the last three holes.

high after starting with a nine-hole score of 31, following it with a 39 for a 70.

Sweet Plant Root of Trouble

MONTREAL (CP) — The curious case of a woman who suffered from high blood pressure caused by eating large quantities of licorice has been reported by two Montreal doctors.

The patient, who was treated at Hotel Dieu Hospital by Dr. Robert E. Lefebvre and Julian Marc-Aurele, first complained in 1965 of intermittent headaches and a feeling of heaviness. Her high blood pressure was discovered when she came to the hospital for surgery on an unrelated disorder.

Tests failed to show any cause for the hypertension and her blood pressure returned to normal after a week in hospital.

But the symptoms returned in two weeks and she consulted the doctors. In relating her history "she volunteered the information that she had developed a peculiar habit—it was not unusual for her to eat at least two pounds of fresh licorice a week."

When she stopped eating licorice, her blood pressure returned to normal in a week and continues within proper limits.

Licorice is derived from the roots of a plant grown in warm European countries. The plant's generic name is glycyrrhiza which means "sweet root."

The patient's experience was reported in the Canadian Medical Association Journal.

First Metric Baby Born on Mainland

VANCOUVER — The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Dooling was born at 0340 hours Wednesday and weighed in at 3,820 — grams that is.

The baby was the first to be born at Vancouver General Hospital following the institution's switchover to the metric system.

A hospital official said few problems were encountered in the move, although it was necessary to fly in some special low-register thermometers from England.

The switch to the 24-hour clock was made at the same time.

LONDON — Princess Lee Radswill, sister of Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, was fined $36 at the Maidenhead magistrates' court for careless driving.

TAIPEI — President Chiang Kai-shek of Nationalist China quietly observed his 81st birthday. The rest of Taiwan celebrated for him. Chiang spent the day at a southern Taiwan resort with his wife, two sons and grandchildren.

LOS ANGELES — Policeman Thomas Blair says he shot actor Lance Fuller, wounding him critically, when Fuller attacked him with a three-foot iron pipe. Fuller, 32, was taken to hospital with a chest wound, while Blair was treated for a broken right hand. Blair said he tried to stop Fuller from hitting parked cars with the pipe.

DUBLIN — An Irish court has ordered the extradition of Sean Bourke of Ireland to Britain to face charges of helping British master spy George Blake escape from prison.

BOZEMAN — Mont — Marsha Jo Osterhold, 18, of Ashcroft, B.C., apparently died as a result of a slip in her bathtub, according to Bozeman city police. Police officials speculated that the Montana State University coed slipped and struck her head as she fell.

ATHENS — George Papandreu, veteran politician and three-time premier of Greece, died 24 hours after he was operated on for a perforated ulcer. He was 80.

Premier Bennett will attend a federal-provincial finance ministers' conference in Ottawa next week. The premier has been repeating calls for abolition of the federal government's equalization grants to provinces.

MAGARA FALLS, Ont. — A New York medium tried unsuccessfully to make contact with the late magician Harry Houdini at a seance. Estelle Parks called on the spirit of the famous escape artist to prove through her, a secret 10-word message he left in a sealed envelope shortly before his death in Montreal Oct. 30, 1926. Houdini left the letter with a friend, Joseph Dunniger, who says he is the only person who knows its contents.

LONDON — Premier Jack Lynch of the Republic of Ireland conferred with British Prime Minister Wilson and said afterward he is satisfied that Britain will not oppose unification of Ireland. He told reporters that "If Ulster—Northern Ireland—and the south of Ireland came to an agreement then Britain would not be in opposition to this."

SAN FRANCISCO — Columbia Pictures' Funny Girl has been named the best motion picture made in the United States this year by the San Francisco International Film Festival. The film, about the life of comedienne Fanny Brice, stars Barbra Streisand and Omar Sharif.

FRANKFURT — Danny (The Red) Ochs, hero of the French student rebellion last May, was sentenced to three days in jail for disrupting the arson trial of four opponents of the Vietnam war.

HOLLYWOOD — Blonde actress Virginia Bruce, 58, star of many films in the 1940s, is reported seriously ill in hospital. Her former husband, Turkish shipowner Ali Ipar, is reported flying to her bedside.

Dashing Hero Of Old Films Dies Violently

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Oldtime movie idol Ramon Navarro was beaten to death Thursday in a brutal fight that rampaged through several rooms of his Hollywood Hills home. He was 69 years old.

The one-time leading man of silent films and early talkies was bludgeoned on the head and shoulders, said officers who followed an extensive trail of blood through the actor's bedroom, den and living room. The body was discovered sprawled on top of his king-sized bed.

Navarro, who played dashing heroes on the screen — among them the first Ben Hur — also cut a romantic swath among Hollywood glamor girls and was the idol of millions of housewives.

Police, who could not immediately find a motive for the slaying in the actor's $150,000 Spanish-style home, said he had been found within hours after his death.

Navarro's pajama-clad body was discovered at approximately 8:30 a.m. by the actor's male secretary, Ed Weber, who first called Navarro's brother, Eduardo, and then police.

Hollywood Detective Chief Robert Houghton said he was brutally beaten and that furniture was overturned.

No weapon could be found, but officers said it appeared Navarro had been bludgeoned to death after putting up a terrific struggle for his life.

Navarro, a life-long bachelor, lived alone on winding Laurel Canyon Boulevard.

He was last seen by his brother 10 days ago when he entered Good Samaritan Hospital for a routine checkup. "At that time Ramon seemed to be in good spirits and was given a clean bill of health," Eduardo said.

A performer for more than 40 years, Navarro's career gradually diminished in the 40s and 50s. From leading roles he began playing character parts — frequently elderly or paternal Latin roles.

He was seen last year in an episode of NBC-TV's High Chaparral portraying a priest. Another of his increasingly rare appearances was a small role in Walt Disney's The Nine Lives of Elfege Baca.

A stubborn man, Navarro, several years ago fought a drunken driving conviction all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court and lost. Since that time he did not drive and did not own an automobile.

Navarro was born in Durango, Mexico, Feb. 6, 1899, and named Jose Ramon Gil Samanlegos. At the age of six he and his sisters organized a pageant for their mother's birthday.

Navarro in 1968

The family migrated to the United States in 1913 where the elder Samanlegos was forced to abandon his dental practice because of failing eyesight and young Ramon helped support his family as a $4-a-week grocery clerk.

Later he found jobs as a piano teacher, theatre usher, cafe singer and finally a bit player in movies. Young Navarro was discovered by dance director Marion Morgan who hired him for her vaudeville act.

Shortly thereafter Navarro starred in The Prisoner of Zenda and immediately captured female hearts with his slick black hair, flashing eyes and romantic image. Among his leading ladies were Greta Garbo, Norma Shearer, Myrna Loy and Miss Terry.

Drive Extended

Appeal
Short
Of Aim

The United Red Feather-Red Cross Appeal is still far short of its objective.

By Thursday evening $350,228 had been donated, representing 53 1/2 per cent of the $655,000 target.

Originally, the campaign was to have ended Thursday, but it has been extended into November as it has for many years.

DONATIONS BEHIND

Donations are running slightly behind the pace set last year, officials say. But they say it is possible some of the larger donations are being made later than usual this time.

Meanwhile, special depots have been set up to receive donations. They are in three stores: Eaton's, The Bay and Woodwards, and the main branches of the Bank of Montreal, Bank of Nova Scotia, Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, Royal Bank and Toronto Dominion Bank.

Donations are also being received at the Rothman's special events caravan which will be at Yates and Douglas until Monday night. After that it will be at the Town and Country shopping centre Tuesday and Wednesday and the Mayfair centre the next three days.

Identification
Testimony
Occupies Trial

By A. H. MURPHY

Evidence aimed at identification of a body found by police near Prospect Lake on July 27, took up most of Thursday as a non-capital murder trial went into its fourth day in Supreme Court here.

The court heard testimony from a dentist, a blood expert, an expert on matching hair and fibre and the director of Saanich police identification department.

Throughout the trial there have been a number of interruptions as counsel for Crown and defence argue over the admission of evidence while the jury is sent out of the courtroom. There were two such incidents Thursday.

WILL BE LENGTHY

There was little doubt Thursday that the trial would be lengthy and it was freely predicted that all of next week might elapse before the jury retired to consider its verdict.

Accused of non-capital murder of hotel clerk Bruce van Munster, 24, last March 15, are Garry Hugh McWhirter, 24, and Frederick James Morry, 28.

Dr. Robert L. Horne said he had been van Munster's dentist since van Munster was a boy of seven or eight. In the course of the years he had had to extract three of his patient's teeth to prevent overcrowding in his mouth.

MATCHED CHART

On July 28, he examined the mouth of a decayed and mummified body and found that the condition of the teeth in the corpse corresponded to the notations on a dental chart he had kept on van Munster over the years.

Parking
Curbed

Morning rush-hour parking restrictions on the west side of Quadra from Market to Courtney start at 7 a.m. today. Parking restrictions are from 7 to 9 a.m. Monday through Friday.

Victoria traffic engineer David Campbell said Thursday the restrictions were necessary to allow the curb lane to carry the early rush hour traffic.

Audubon Film
At Museum

National Audubon Society lecturer Fran William Hall will present a film, The Real Yellowstone, at 8 p.m. today and Saturday in the auditorium of the new provincial museum. Next Audubon film, Wings of the W&B, will be shown Feb. 7 and 8, a.m. today.

Road Travel Not So Hot

Trout Prefer Air Drops

For a fingerling rainbow trout, it is safer to go to the lake via a 400-foot fall from an aircraft than by B.C. roads.

Officials at the province's fish and wildlife branch explained, that this is not meant as a criticism of the roads.

It's just that the infant rainbows don't always fare well during long hauls to more remote lakes aboard trucks for restocking purposes, says public information officer George Ferguson.

On the other hand, when the fingerling is dropped from a plane, "it kind of floats down like a leaf," he said Thursday. It is partly for this reason that planes are used for the major part of the restocking program.

In September, according to the branch, 2,000,000 fingerlings were distributed through 190 B.C. lakes. Of these, 186 lakes were restocked by air.

Mr. Ferguson said the death rate was much higher among the fish transported by trucks.

"But when they are dropped they just hit the water and scurry away unharmed," he said. "The mortality rate is almost nil."

The fingerlings are packed in cans and plastic bags that contain water and oxygen. The containers are marked with names of various lakes, and it is up to the "bomber" to release the right fingerlings over the right lake at the right time.

Board's Aid for Teachers

Computer to Assess
Area Pupils' Ability

By BILL STAVDAL

The computer has been enlisted to help assess all of Greater Victoria's school children.

The Greater Victoria school board's division of research and testing is producing permanent record cards from batteries of tests administered recently in all schools.

Every child except those in kindergarten—29,000 in all—will soon have a personal assessment card which will follow him as long as he remains in the school district, research and testing head David Price said this week.

Each child has been assigned a seven-digit number based on his birth date. The number will be used for faster information retrieval by computer, said Mr. Price.

TEST PAPERS

Leased computer facilities at the University of Victoria and downtown have been used to mark test papers and prepare individual assessments, Mr. Price said.

He denied a suggestion that assigning children numbers and introducing the computer to testing would dehumanize education.

"The machine reads numbers; it can't read names," said Mr. Price. "If it could, we wouldn't need numbers."

LIBERATION

More efficient information retrieval would "liberate teachers from being clerks," he forecast.

"Most of our counsellors spend much of their time doing clerical work and not people things," said Mr. Price, a former counsellor.

He forecast the school district might some day install TV-type screens in each school, connected to a central computer registry.

A VARIATION

A variation would be a teletype installation, Mr. Price suggested.

Another feature of a computer system is that it can be used to test the tests, he said.

If most children—bright and dull—miss the correct answer to a question, then there is something wrong with the question, he explained.

Mr. Price also said the current battery of tests did not comprise "intelligence" tests. They assessed basic skills and concepts, he said, and measured a child's ability to do academic work.

VLA Applications

Deadline Day
'Fantastic'

"This is the most fantastic day I have known in my 23 years with the department."

The occasion had been the deadline Thursday for benefits under the Veterans' Land Act and the words were the only ones VLA district manager G. E. Burrell could find to describe what had happened.

He said the staff of five in the VLA office at 805 Government had opened the doors at 8:15 a.m., expecting something of a surge on the last day of registration.

"But nothing like this," he said at 4:30 p.m.

By that time, 387 applications had been accepted.

There was another handful still to be processed.

It was the last day on which veterans could register for the special purchase of land. Under the act, an individual lot can be purchased for the erection of a single-family home, or with a single-family home already erected. Those registering are protected until March 31, 1974.

During the height of Thursday's rush, the lineup extended two deep from in front of the counter in the seventh-floor VLA office into two side offices.

"None of us even got to lunch," said Mr. Burrell.

Fire Origin Sought

Arson Possibility
Not Discounted

Investigators searching for the origin of the fire that may have caused more than $500,000 damage here late Wednesday and early Thursday have not discounted arson.

However, by Thursday night they had not turned up anything to indicate what the cause might have been.

The biggest fire in Victoria in three years, it destroyed the storage building of Shawigan Building Supplies, 2000 Government, the building housing Pell's Restaurant Supply, and the office and warehouse of building contractor Eric Hutchinson.

LOSSES $500,000

Shawigan officials have placed the loss on their building and contents at $300,000. Damage to the Pell building and contents may run to $140,000, according to unofficial estimates.

When he was asked where his office was now located, he said: "In my pocket."

He referred to a pen and little black book which he said were all that survived the fire. Later, however, neighbors, friends and business associates rallied behind him with offers of office space, an adding machine and book work.

TRICK-OR-TREATERS demanding ransom at Dryfhurst Apartments in Esquimalt early Thursday night were met at main door by manager Mrs. Mabel Jiggins, left, and Mrs. Mildred Clements who dished out treats to hundreds of costumed youngsters. Mrs. Jiggins explained the system not only protected the building's carpets but also helped youngsters receive their loot.—(William E. John)

Even Reporter Treated

Halloween Changed
And Police Pleased

By BOB PETHICK

"Halloween's just aren't what they used to be, a veteran sergeant said late Thursday night as 150 policemen and auxiliaries had smiles for Victoria's youth.

Big incident in a night of what police termed "a flock of little incidents" was a raid on Centennial Square in which about 40 teenagers were shoed out after tossing out a string of firecrackers.

There were masses of minor complaints but police in the Greater Victoria area listed this night as probably the quietest ever encountered.

Two reasons were listed by police as keeping down the fuss—the firecracker ban bylaw and the chilly weather.

Meanwhile on the homefront a little tramp in blackface grinned as he hefted his swag bag. "Halloween is for trick and treats," he said.

Hundreds of youngsters were on the streets on the one night of the year when door knocking and candy demands are legal. Some children were masked, others in elaborate costume, some in old clothes for sooty disguise.

The little ones had a mother or father hovering patiently in the gloom.

About the only things in common were the grins—and the bulging sacks.

Highlight of Halloween for a Colonist staffer arrived while he was walking his dog shortly before going on shift at 7 p.m. and it slipped its leash and rushed to the door of a neighborhood house.

As he was retrieving the dog a young lady came to the door with a bag of candy and a box of apples. "I'm sorry, I'm fresh out of tricks," said the reporter. The young lady gave him an apple—it was delicious.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I am getting sick and tired of reading letters from wives complaining about their husbands' snoring. My husband snores — loud, long and every night. So what? He is one of the best human beings the good Lord ever put on this earth.

When the snoring starts and my sleep is interrupted, I lie quietly and watch him get his badly needed rest. When I read that some women let their husbands' jaws shut with silk stockings and strap bicycle horns to their heads, I get so mad I could scream.

Every night I thank God that this wonderful man is in OUR bed snoring. We have been married 10 years and I hope the good Lord gives us 10 more. —CONTINUED.

Dear Con: What a lovely letter! But while you're asking-ask for 40 more, not 10, dummy!

Stop Wasting Lives

Please, Ann, continue to urge your readers to stop wasting their lives, especially the young. Psychiatry can open doors to peace of mind and contentment. It can conquer fear and guilt and self hate. It can also overcome physical complaints and fatigue and depression.

I am very poor at expressing myself but I wanted to try. Thanks for reading this. —NANCY.

Dear Nancy: I shall continue to urge people to get professional help, although I am well aware that not all patients obtain the glowing results you describe. And if you were able to achieve the miracle with your original therapist you are fortunate.

Therapy can be magic for some and Nothingville for others. I recommend professional help for individuals who are depressed, destructive or in continual conflict with themselves and others. Therapy that produces even modest results beats walking around frightened, guilty, mad at the world and plagued by "undiagnosed" aches and pains.

Show Biggest

OTTAWA (UPI)—Seventeen Canadian fashion manufacturers will hold their biggest foreign showing ever in New York Nov. 19 to 22, the trade department said. The showing will be of junior petite, junior miss and women's rainwear.

But Only Temporarily

Topless-Suit King Steps Off Throne

By EUGENIA SHEPPARD

NEW YORK — Rudi Gernreich wants a year's vacation, and he's going to take it. He has the courage.

"There is absolutely nothing the matter with me," says Rudi, who came here from his Beverly Hills home to make the announcement. "I don't have cancer or a brain tumor or any incurable disease. I just want to refresh myself."

Rudi, actually a quiet, highly individual, creative-type designer, was catapulted rather rudely into fame when he made the topless bathing suit for Look magazine. It was a minor part of his collection that season and he never expected all the upsur.

Mountains of mail poured in, and the blasts of the conservatives didn't easily roll off his back.

The topless suit coincided with the far-out phase that was opening up in American fashion and the Gernreich clothes, loved formerly by a small public, became best-sellers with well-to-do suburban women from east to west. All the awards fell into Rudi's lap, along with demands for more and more designing and use of his magic name. Though he became a richer man, there was too much turmoil.

"I just finished one collection and have to start another right away," Rudi Gernreich says. "I get to work in the morning and all I want is to run away."

To run away for a year is just what he has decided to do. "Why shouldn't a designer take a sabbatical?" It is actually just eight years since Rudi has been under heavy pressure.

Rudi is really saying just what so many designers feel. The more successful the designer, the more pressure to milk the marvellous money-making ideas and the more grumbling and criticism there is from buyers and retailers when the sensational headline-making news doesn't turn up all ready for use at every collection time. Instant inspiration is what the followers of every great designer demand.

In Paris last year Pierre Cardin expressed the same kind of mental fatigue as

Gernreich

Rudi. Both are supersensitive men, vulnerable to the slightest criticism. Instead of two big collections a year, Cardin has slowed down to one, giving him time in between to study the current mood.

Cardin can't take a sabbatical, because he has to keep his workrooms running. A leave of absence is easier for Rudi who farms out his labor—pants to one manufacturer and dresses to another.

Rudi Gernreich has a second reason for wanting a sabbatical. A designer will be much more of a background figure from now on, he believes.

"The minute you design something it is imposed on people. I feel that women must have the basics and be able to do their own thing with scarfs and chains. They want to involve themselves with their clothes."

In his latest Gernreich collection, shown here last week, Rudi concentrates on basics, though basic in his vocabulary may not necessarily be basic to anyone else. The Gernreich basics are shirts, pants, and tiny shirts-lets that can be worn also as twosomes of tunic and mini-skirt.

"There's no major problem," says Rudi of his leave of absence. "Some reorganization, naturally. Some of my key people will just wait."

Later in the year he will go back to Beverly Hills, where he has a comfortable home at the top of one of the canyons where you can see forever and ever.

He will do nothing but sit there and take a long look at life and fashion. Lots of people will be waiting to hear what he sees ahead.

Skin Cosmetic Best on Toast?

Women will swallow anything when it comes to cosmetics. I have a story that will prove that statement.

Elizabeth Bayley, who is in Canada for her firm, Cyclax of London, and I had lunch at the Imperial on Wednesday. We had a few laughs about amusing things that happen when dealing with the public. Elizabeth told me this one.

A woman who had obviously never used cosmetics came into their London salon. They advised her on which cream she should use and told her what results she could expect; that her skin would improve in texture, be beautifully smooth and more youthful.

Three stars
The woman brought a pound jar of the cream and was back in a week's time to tell them that everything they had said about the cream was more than true — her skin had never felt better, but she needed another jar. Cyclax staff, both surprised and puzzled, suggested that maybe she didn't need to use quite so much.

But the woman insisted she needed another jar. So Cyclax inquired tactfully how she used it (thinking perhaps she was using it as a body lotion). "On a teaspoon but I prefer it on toast, was the woman's unruffled reply.

PERSONAL MENTION

By Dorothy Wrotnowski

Elizabeth says this certainly shows the purity of the product but the firm doesn't really approve of this use.

Three stars
Then there was another one about a woman who came in and wanted to have her face made up as she was going on a short holiday. This one I think was in Canada or the U.S.

"How long will it last?" she asked after her face had been "done." They explained carefully that all makeup should be removed at night and applied again the following day.

The woman came jauntily back into the store in about ten days to tell them how pleased she was about what they had done for her.

Asked if she had been able to manage for herself the woman said "Oh, no, I left it on for three days. It was just fine."

Elizabeth tells this one on herself.

Three stars
In the TV to be on TV to tell about her product. So naturally she took special pains with her makeup. Cyclax is proud of their eye make up, particularly eye-lashes, shaped and made from human hair.

"I felt as if I'd made myself as beautiful as possible and started off for the TV station in high spirits. While on the air I certainly batted those eyelashes around a few times to make sure they would be noticed."

Three stars
When she came out of the building Elizabeth noticed that people stopped talking and started to whisper. And others even pointed her out and whispered. She didn't pay too much attention.

Back in her hotel room she went straight to her mirror to confirm that she had looked pretty good. And jumped back about three feet.

Her eyelashes had come unstuck at the ends and were pointed straight out and up. "I looked exactly like a devil," she said.

Three stars
No new style was launched but she was noticed. And that's what the TV people thought she was after.

Elizabeth will be at The Bay the remainder of this week and all next week to demonstrate Cyclax cosmetics and to answer questions.

Dr. R. H. B. Jones, a native Victorian, is visiting the city for three weeks with his wife. Dr. Jones has a brother, A. H. C. Jones, and a sister, Miss Evelyn Jones, living here. While here, Dr. and Mrs. Jones are looking at homes with an eye to possibly moving here from Burlington, Calif. Dr. Jones, a noted geologist, has been semi-retired for some years while acting as a consulting geologist.

The party for Rex Hughes at McMorran's on Saturday night was really a surprise. It was a double occasion — his 65th birthday and his retirement from the Bamberton Cement plant where he had worked for 48 years.

His son-in-law and daughter,

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Rogers arranged the party — and there was a beautifully decorated cake all glowing with candles.

Others at the party were: Mr. and Mrs. S. W. McCleave, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tomlinson, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. Art Delisle, Mr. and Mrs. Rod Muirhead, Mr. and Mrs. Art Lowe, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Zellinsky, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Warner, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Zellinsky, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Starkey, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Art Mayo, Mr. and Mrs. Low Erdman, Miss Glyde Trowse, Mrs. Mabel Walker, Miss Edith Jeune, Mrs. Peg Eastwood and Mrs. Joan Eastwood.

Courtroom ParadeWeapons Found on Campus

A sawed-off .22-calibre rifle, a drawing of a gun silencer, and pornographic drawings found in a locker of the McPherson Library on the University of Victoria campus, were entered as crown exhibits Thursday in Central Magistrate's Court.

Leonard J. Gauthier, 20, of Crofton, pleaded guilty to possession of a sawed-off rifle and a spring knife, when he appeared before Magistrate William Ostler.

Court was told several of the items were found during a routine locker check and when Gauthier was interviewed later at his hotel room they saw him throw a switchblade knife out the window into an alley of breaking and entering and committing mischief.

Nov. 12 was set for a preliminary hearing.

The charge followed an incident at Pearson's Motorcycle Sales, 3400 Douglas, on Oct. 24.

Wayne Robertson, 36, of Lincoln Hotel, pleaded guilty to vagrancy Thursday, and when asked by the magistrate, "If you've got a job, why don't you stick with it?" answered, "Stupidity, Your Honor."

Asked "Are you an alcoholic?" he answered, "I guess so."

Court was told Robertson tried to beg a dime from two plainclothes detectives, telling them, "I want a bottle but I'm a bit short."

Magistrate Ostler imposed a $100 good behavior bond for six months, with the understanding Robertson would try to get help from the Harbour Light Mission.

Martin E. Jones, 22, of 2718 Rock Bay, pleaded guilty to theft over $50 involving a car taken from a lot in Campbell River Oct. 9.

Court was told Jones and a 13-year-old boy drove a truck to Campbell River and when it broke down the juvenile cashed bad cheques for repairs.

Because they were staying in Sayward and had no transportation to return there they took the car.

The case was adjourned to Nov. 8 for a presentence report.

Robert A. Brown, of the C and E Motel, was remanded to Nov. 7 for plea on two counts of driving while his licence was suspended.

Linda M. Dueck, 18, of 790 Hillside, was remanded to Nov. 7 and told by Magistrate Ostler, "Go see the probation officer instantly."

She pleaded guilty Oct. 21 to theft under $50 of a lacrosse ball, and told court Thursday she had not seen the probation officer Wednesday because she overslept.

The magistrate warned her that if she did not comply and see the officer, she would be jailed.

Paul Codle, 32, of 1828 Adanac, was fined $300 and had his licence suspended for impaired driving.

Fined $35 after pleading guilty to being minors in possession of liquor: Robert G. Nagel, 18, of 2014 Chaucer, and Robert W. Palmer, 18, of 4436 Torquay.

Isaacson Given New Post

A. I. Isaacson, principal of Macaulay elementary school in Esquimalt, was chosen Wednesday to become principal of George Jay elementary.

A special meeting of the Greater Victoria school board picked Mr. Isaacson from 15 applicants. Four of the applicants were from outside the district, superintendent Joseph Chell said Thursday.

Mr. Isaacson's appointment is effective Jan. 1. He will replace C. A. Michell, who died last summer.

Mr. Chell said the board would now advertise for a new principal at Macaulay elementary.

Wage Deadlock Continues In Teacher Negotiations

No progress was reported Wednesday after a conciliation meeting between negotiators for the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association and the Greater Victoria board and the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association.

Negotiations for both sides said the teachers were maintaining their request for a 10.17-per-cent salary increase in 1969. The board has refused to make any offer until the teachers modify their stand.

Bargaining is continuing through government conciliator J. S. Sherlock.

Garden Notes

By M. V. CHESNUT

This is a good time of the year to collect and burn any rubbish, twigs, branches, brambles, hedge prunings and other litter unfit for the compost heap.

Not only does this clear away a lot of useless material which might provide cover for elgus and woodlice, but the burning provides ashes which are most useful for maintaining the fertility of your soil.

Pure wood ash contains between 20 and 30 per cent potash, 20 to 50 per cent lime and five to 15 per cent phosphate—all valuable fertilizer elements.

Potash, by the way, was originally "pot ash," named for the pots used for boiling the soft ash-wood which was used for almost all laundering from ancient Roman times until caustic soda came into use around 1770.

The nutrients in wood ashes are highly soluble and easily leached out of the soil by winter rain, so it is best to gather it up and store it in the dry until needed for the feeding of your plants.

If you have no convenient storage place, you can always mix the ashes into your compost heap where the soluble mineral salts will be absorbed and held by the sponge-like action of the compost.

While wood ashes are good for almost all plants except the most confirmed lime-haters, they make an especially useful dressing for raspberries, which are hounds for potash, and for tomatoes, which are better flavored and more resistant to disease when given supplementary feedings high in potash.

Save a little for the gooseberries, as these bushes suffer greatly when their diet is lacking in potash.

When you have your bonfire going, it is a good idea to throw a few grass sods on the fire. Newly-cut sods are not suitable for use in potting up bulbs or houseplants, nor in seed-sowing soil mixtures, and ordinarily they would have to be rotted down for a year before being incorporated into a soil mixture.

But after spending a night on a glowing ash heap, they can be used straight away. Moreover, you won't have to worry about couch grass or weed seeds in the sod—the fire will take care of these.

If you do your gardening on heavy clay soil, it will pay you to bank your fire with some of this soil.

Once clay has been burned, it can never again revert to its original sticky state but becomes gritty—almost like coarse brick dust.

There isn't any fertility in burnt clay, but it is a grand soil conditioner and I find it especially useful for top-dressing the rows in which the first sowings of onion seeds are made in the spring.

As far as temperatures are concerned, outdoor sowings of onion seeds can be made as early as February.

Trouble is, the soil is usually far too sloppy to work at that time of the year, and in fact the ground is often too wet for sowing right up to and including April—too late for growing good bulb onions from seed.

You can dry off the surface of your onion bed simply by topping it up with a generous dressing of burnt clay, and this can put you weeks ahead in your onion sowing.

Ashes are not the only useful product of the garden bonfire, for the bits of charcoal and charred wood are of real value, especially in soil mixtures for houseplants, serving to keep the soil sweet.

It isn't much needed for the short-term subjects, such as potted bulbs for spring flowering indoors—they aren't in their pots long enough for the soil to turn sour and stagnant—but I wouldn't dream of potting up any plant which is destined to remain in its tub or pot for over a year without mixing charred wood or charcoal into the potting soil.

Charred wood also has some uses in the outdoor garden. Sweet violets and all the small primroses love the stuff, and Pampas Grass is an incurable addict for both ashes and charcoal.

JACK SMITH and the Old Word Game

Try Instant Gobbledygook

UCLA, a quarterly published by the University of California at Los Angeles Alumni Association, has devoted its fall issue to some of the problems of communication in this technological age.

"One of the great ironies of our time," it observes, "is the fact that we are sending signals to the stars before we have mastered the seemingly simple skill of communicating with our fellow man."

"That gap—between technology and the human factor in communications—poses an urgent and complex threat to all mankind. The problem is a direct and daily challenge to our universities."

One article in the magazine is called "Is the United States Ready for Self-government?" It is based on a "conversation" with Leonard Freedman, head of the UCLA extension program.

For a subtitle the article quotes Goethe—"There is nothing more frightful than ignorance in action."

Surveys show, the article notes, that from 20 to 40 per cent of adult Americans have never even heard of the major public issues in any campaign; and when they are aware of the issues, they are often vague or mistaken about them.

In the 1948 presidential campaign, for example, a third of the public had never heard of the Taft-Hartley act, a critical issue in that campaign; a fourth were unaware that China was in Communist hands, and of those who were aware of it, a fourth thought Chiang Kai-shek was the Communist leader.

"With evidence of public ignorance so abundant," the article says, "it should not be surprising when political campaigns are waged on the level of personality rather than rationality of fear rather than fact."

In "The Technology of Noncommunication," engineer Craig B. Smith revives a word game thought up by "some playful people in government." It might be called instant gobbledygook.

Players start with three lists of words, numbered 0 to 9, as follows:

Group A—0. Finalized; 1. Objective; 2. Overall; 3. Behavioral; 4. Baseline; 5. Compatible; 6. Nonoperative; 7. Integrative; 8. Cost-effective; 9. Flexible.

Group B—0. System; 1. Factor; 2. Reference; 3. Program; 4. Retrospective; 5. Framework; 6. Management; 7. Logistic; 8. Peripheral; 9. Adjustment.

Group C—0. Utilization; 1. Focus; 2. Policy; 3. Concept; 4. Model; 5. Criteria; 6. Guideline; 7. Disposition; 8. Contingency; 9. Capability.

To write something in gobbledygook, merely think of any three-digit number, then use the corresponding word from each group. Take the number 261, for example. That gives us "overall management focus," which is, you will agree, an objective system guideline.

With this method there is almost no idea, by whatever flexible reference criteria, that cannot be noncommunicated.

Dr. Craig blames "technical writers" for a lot of bad writing.

"Many technical people seem to feel they are special," he says, "and therefore entitled to a special language which they call 'technical writing.' Horsefeathers. There is no such thing as technical writing. There is only good writing and bad writing, and all shades in between."

Dr. Craig recalls British historian Alan Simpson's revision of the 23rd psalm in the style of the "technical writer."

"The Lord is my external, internal integrative mechanism. I shall not be deprived of gratifications for my viscerogenic hungers of my need-dispositions. He motivates me to orient myself towards a nonsocial object with effective significance. He positions me in a nondescript situation. He maximizes my adjustment."

Or, to put it simply—the Lord gives me 999. That means flexible adjustment capability.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

'Lili' Over Budget

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Julie Andrews' Darling Lili for Paramount has jumped $5,000,000 over budget with four more weeks to go perhaps more — on the film directed by Julie's fiancé Blake Edwards.

Naturally 20th Century-Fox was disappointed when Julie failed to attend her Star! premiere in New York, but with "Lili" reaching the $16,000,000 mark, you can understand why the worried Paramount people absolutely refused to let her leave Hollywood, where finally Julie was able to see herself in the film. Some of the reviews were bad, but Julie is still a magic name at the box office and I imagine Star! will do well.

In case you like figures as much as I do, Julie Andrews was paid a mere $200,000 for her strenuous role as the late Gertrude Lawrence. She signed for it before she won the Oscar for Mary Poppins — a two picture deal with 20th — the other $200,000 stipend was for The Sound of Music — the most successful film of all time. Julie's marriage to Blake Edwards will take place any day after November 14—the day her divorce is final from Tony Walton.

Lloyd Nolan was added to Ice Station Zebra, three months after the picture was finished! He was brought in for the bit in the beginning to explain what it was all about. I'm still not sure what that is but the film I believe will do well. It's big and splashy and will be nominated for the marvellous photography and sets. But for Stanley Kubrick's 2001: a space odyssey, it might have carried off the Oscar in the two departments.

Oh dear, what can the matter be with The Extraordinary Seaman? The film, starring David Niven and Faye Dunaway, has the MGM front office scratching its collective head. For one thing, it is only 78 minutes long and that is too short for a movie today. For another, I hear it is confusing — it's catching. The stars have scattered and there is no possibility of retakes. The picture will come out one of these days, but when?

I thought they had gone as far as they could go in frankness and publicity on the screen. But Alan Bady and Elizabeth Hartman have a bedroom scene in The Exer, that goes into a topic never covered on-screen or anywhere before. Now there's nothing left.

Ralph Gets Hero's Welcome Home

By HELEN MITCHELL
Campbell River turned out enthusiastically Wednesday to welcome home Ralph Hutton who won a silver medal in the 400 meters freestyle swimming event at the Olympics. The weatherman co-operated by providing a beautiful day. Ralph was met on his arrival in Vancouver Tuesday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs.

Ralph C. Hutton of Campbell River, his sisters, Lisi, a student at Simon Fraser University and Loril 13, and driven home Wednesday afternoon.

They were met at Oyster River Bridge by a cavalcade of floats and decorated cars and escorted into town.

Students from schools in the district lined the highway to cheer the swimmer passed. He received a civic welcome at the municipal hall where he and his family signed the guest book, then appeared before a large crowd assembled on Tyee Plaza.

Ralph was tendered a civic dinner in Discovery Inn attended by Mayor Kenneth McDonald and members of council, officials of the Chamber of Commerce which arranged the welcome, the Campbell River swim club and recreation commission.

In the evening the community hall was filled to capacity for an open house reception where Ralph received several gifts, as well as congratulatory telegrams from John Munro, Minister of National Health and Welfare, Premier Bennett, Dan Campbell, W. K. Kierman, Dick Durante, MP for Comox-Alberni and the Royal Canadian Legion.

Free refreshments were served to about 800 persons by the Legion auxiliary.

Assisting the Chamber of Commerce with the reception were the Campbell River fire department, the swim club, school cheer leaders and the Legion pipe band.

When asked what he thought of the welcome, Ralph kept repeating "fantastic, just fantastic. And I certainly appreciated all the support I received while in Mexico City. I got 27 telegrams from Campbell River alone."

One of the gifts was an inscribed gold wrist watch presented on behalf of the people of Campbell River by Mayor McDonald.

"This will come in handy," said the swimmer. "I had my watch stolen in Mexico City."

Besides his watch, Ralph lost his transistor radio and all his money except for 25 pesos, about $2.00.

Members appointed to the Indian fishermen's development board are: James Gonnell, an Indian of Alayish, B.C.; Robert Clifton of Comox, past president of the Native Brotherhood of British Columbia; T. F. Rothery, development officer with the Indian Affairs branch, Vancouver; Leo Holthe, manager, Galt and Fraser Fishermen's Credit Union, Vancouver.

The appointment of a five-man board to administer a new federal assistance program for Indian fishermen in British Columbia has been announced jointly by Jean Chretien, Indian affairs and northern development minister, and Jack Davis, fisheries and forestry minister.

Under this program, loans and grants will be paid to B.C. Indians for the construction and purchase of fishing vessels, equipment, gear and shore facilities, and for fisheries training courses.

The program, to cost $4,500,000, will be phased over five years. Funds will be provided by the Indian Affairs and Northern Development department.

Halloween Clash Hurts Two

NANAIMO—Cpl. Bill Rayson and Staff-Sgt. Glib Perry were injured Thursday night when they told 400 teenagers milling in Northbrook shopping centre during Halloween to leave.

Cpl. Perry moved toward the group and was jumped on, pulled to the ground, and kicked. Late Thursday night he was being treated in Nanaimo hospital two broken face bones. He will be sent to Veterans Hospital Victoria, today.

Staff-Sgt. Perry who rushed to his aid was out on the ear. The cut required stitches, and he was released.

Twelve teenagers were arrested during the night and charged with vandalism.

Cowichan Project Faltering

More Hands Needed For Christmas Cheer

DUNCAN—Support by local organizations and clubs is needed to keep the Cowichan Christmas Cheer going.

The Christmas Cheer has been in existence for more than 10 years and has proven to be very successful.

Approximately 225 families in the district received hampers last year.

Chairman Harold Allman said, "During the past few years the Cowichan Christmas Cheer organization has fallen onto too few shoulders, and I, for one, have found the load too heavy."

"For outside of the Gyro Club which has delivered hampers, there has been little or no help."

The procedure to make up and distribute these cheer hampers has been proven and there is plenty of cash in the bank.

There will be a meeting next Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at Allman Estates Ltd. office, 35 Canada Avenue, Duncan, to discuss the future of this organization.

All clubs and organizations are invited to send a representative.

"If this meeting fails to appoint a chairman and an organization to continue the Cowichan Christmas Cheer, it is my intention to distribute, by cheque, the cash on hand to verified families in need at Christmas."

This is a good thing and it would be a shame to end, but people don't realize how much work is to be done," said Mr. Allman.

Retiring Worker Honored

PORT ALBERNI—An original painting by local artist Trevor Godall was presented to retiring city works employee George Richardson at city council meeting Monday night.

Mr. Richardson, said Mayor Fred Bishop, has a wonderful record of service to the city. He began as a part-time employee in 1929, and was later employed as foreman of a gang clearing trees off what is now Redford Street, main highway access to the city. Mr. Richardson has 35 years of accumulated service, was road foreman with the works department until his retirement Oct. 15.

Voters' List

PARKSVILLE — Parksville village council will sit at a court of revision at 7:30 p.m. today to hear complaints and make corrections if necessary in the municipal voters' list.

Petition Slams Service

Ferry Meeting Set

PORT ALBERNI — A public meeting for people involved with a petition circulating throughout the Island complaining about B.C. Ferry service, will be held at Alberni District high school auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 10.

The meeting, arranged by Arthur Harrington, is expected to attract many people from all over the Island.

Mr. Harrington said Thursday that Liberal MP for Comox-Alberni, Dick Durante, will fly out from Ottawa and represent the federal government.

Dr. Howard McDiarmid, MLA will likely attend, to represent the B.C. government.

Mr. Harrington stressed that the meeting was not intended to be a political battleground. He asked that those attending treat both men with the respect for the offices they serve.

The only topic to be discussed, Mr. Harrington, said, would be the B.C. ferries, their rates and service to people of the Island.

He said 4,000 signatures were added to the petition in the Alberni Valley and a few outlying districts.

"I don't know exactly how many names are on the petition in other Island points, but from talking to various people around the Island, the response has been extremely good," he said.

Mr. Durante said earlier this week in Ottawa: "I agree with the petitioners that the present service leaves a great deal to be desired, particularly during the summer months. Although I do not necessarily agree with their proposals, I do agree with the principle," he said.

'I Hit Her—She Fell'

NANAIMO — Herbert Leth Wells, 23, of Holberg admitted in statements to police that he killed Carolyn Rufus, 26, May 19, in Alert Bay, an investigating officer testified Thursday.

Cpl. Bill Kerr told a Supreme Court trial that Wells made the admission during investigations in Vancouver.

Wells is charged with non-capital murder.

"DIDN'T MOVE" "I hit her a couple of times in the face . . . she fell . . . she didn't move," Cpl. Kerr quoted Wells as saying.

Cpl. Kerr said statements made by Wells indicated Wells and the woman had been drinking, went to his hotel room and argued. Miss Rufus threw a beer bottle, Wells told Cpl. Kerr, adding that he hit her several times before she fell.

He said the acts of hitting the body, hitting the woman's effects, returning to the room to clean up the broken beer bottle and cigarettes indicated a man with all his faculties working.

"The Crown says he knew what he was doing," Mr. Williams said.

"If he was not incapacitated, he must be found guilty as charged," he asserted.

Mr. Justice P. Craig Monroe, said his address to the jury would take more than an hour.

The trial was adjourned to 10 a.m. today.

Defence counsel is John Mackenzie of Vancouver.

Rest After Long Career

James A. Rowe, 72, of 1914 Lulie, said goodbye Thursday to Victoria Press after 56 years in advertising and stationery departments. He was presented with reclining chair by Richard Bower, publisher and editor-in-chief of The Daily Colonist, for which Mr. Rowe has worked since May 19, 1912, except for First World War Service. Fishing, gardening and golf now loom big in Mr. Rowe's plans. — (Kinsman)

Social Worker Explains

Drop-Ins Welcome At Church Centre

A drop-in centre is "a place where young people who do not go to church or a church group can come together," a YMCA detached worker explained to a church group Wednesday.

John Durkin was telling his largely adult audience about the drop-in centre started four months ago at Centennial United Church, with no particular plan in mind other than to attract young people.

He said the idea was to get the young people coming first, then have them make up their own program of things they liked to do. There are about 110 members at the centre, with 80 to 90 attending regularly.

At present there is an art program, a cheerleading section and a band. A camping program begins Nov. 9 and plans are being made for a hockey team and homework clinic. Membership in the centre is $1 a year for a family.

Mr. Durkin said his role at the centre was to get young people to trust him and talk to him.

This meeting was the first of a five-part series at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Centennial United at 649 Gorge Road East. Some of the other topics will be urban renewal in Victoria, the Anglican and United Church union, and meaningful use of free time in an age of leisure.

Johnson: 'We expect progress'

Help for HH: Is It Enough?

By ROBERT J. DONOVAN
(Colonist Los Angeles Times Service)

WASHINGTON — The bombing halt and broadening of Vietnam talks announced by President Johnson Thursday injected a new and significant — but not necessarily decisive — factor into the presidential campaign five days before the election.

Obviously, the decision is a big help to Vice-President Hubert Humphrey, the apparent underdog.

This is a far cry, however, from saying it will defeat Richard Nixon. For it has never been established that Nixon's lead has depended on the day-to-day situation in Vietnam. Rather it has been due to many factors, notably the widespread desire for a change.

Above and beyond the president's dramatic announcement, the more critical factor in an increasingly foggy political situation is that for some time now Humphrey evidently has been closing in on Nixon.

What has been happening, it seems, is that Democratic voters who kicked over the traces after the debacle at the Democratic national convention in Chicago, have begun drifting back to party regularity.

Some of them are former supporters of Sen. Eugene McCarthy. McCarthy's endorsement of the vice-president on Tuesday doubtless accelerated their return.

Others among those returning are Democratic labor unionists who had decided to bolt to former Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, but who now seem to be coming back to the Democratic fold as a result of the extraordinary job being done by union leaders to pull their followers into line behind the vice-president.

In other words, if Humphrey were somehow to bring off the greatest political upset since Harry Truman defeated Thomas Dewey in 1948, the basis of his victory would have been the Democratic surge that began even before the president's speech. The bombing halt would be the frosting on the cake.

If this analysis, supported by some of the best experts there are, is correct, then it is the trend before the bombing halt and not the announcement itself that will have been decisive.

In a very close election, of course, the frosting might make the difference. The political picture has reached such a point of opacity that for all anyone really knows, very small shifts in the total vote could decide the election.

Hence the significance of the boost that the vice-president got from the White House Thursday night.

White encouraged, however, not many of his supporters

Saigon Miffed

SAIGON (UPI) — A miffed South Vietnamese government said today in its first official reaction to the U.S. bombing halt that President Johnson "unilaterally took the decision" to end the air raids over North Vietnam.

Several government sources had said in private that Johnson's decision would mean a great loss of face for President Thieu.

U.S. HALTS BOMBING

From Reuters - AP - UPI

WASHINGTON — President Johnson Thursday night ordered a complete bombing halt over

North Vietnam to open the way for full-scale political talks between the United States, North Vietnam, South Vietnam and the Viet Cong.

In Paris, U.S. and North Vietnamese negotiators early today plunged into immediate preparations for full-scale peace talks, set to begin next Wednesday.

A spokesman for the Hanoi group said a press conference would be held later today in response to Johnson's announcement.

The president's dramatic announcement was coupled with a sharp warning that the new talks "cannot continue" if the communists take advantage of the American decision to stop the bombing.

Johnson ended three weeks of worldwide speculation by announcing in a television broadcast that all U.S. air, naval and artillery bombardment of North Vietnam would end at 5 a.m. PST today.

"What we now expect—what we have a right to expect—are prompt, productive, serious and intensive negotiations in an atmosphere that is conducive to progress," he said.

Official sources said the president acted because he had "reason to believe" that Hanoi would scale down the fighting and would respect the demilitarized buffer zone between North and South Vietnam.

Hubert Humphrey said in Newark, N.J., he "fully supported" Johnson's halt of the bombing and called it a "prudent and . . . wise decision."

Minutes after the announcement, the campaigning Democratic presidential candidate said "I hope it will lead to a peaceful settlement."

His Republican opponent, Richard Nixon, appearing at a rally in New York's Madison Square Garden, would not comment beyond saying "I trust this action may bring some progress in those (Paris) talks."

One of his supporters, however, said Johnson's decision was made possible by Nixon's "responsible support of the president's efforts."

Third presidential candidate George Wallace, in Norfolk, Va., also refused any comment except to say "I sincerely hope we have an honorable settlement."

North Vietnamese reaction quoted in Paris was: "This removes a tremendous obstacle to peace — but now the political struggle for our country begins."

Further comment was withheld pending study of the announcement.

Washington sources indicated that Johnson decided to declare the bombing halt even without a public pledge of military reciprocity because of secret indications that Hanoi would refrain from taking military advantage of the American move.

SAIGON (AP) — United States warplanes carried out daylight missions against North Vietnam today but orders went out to stop the northern bombing by 9 p.m. Saigon time in line with President Johnson's bombardment halt.

In the South, rockets slammed into Saigon Thursday night and then early today just before President Johnson made his announcement in Washington. One rocket hit a Roman Catholic church, killing 19 worshippers and wounding 64. Two other persons died and 14 were wounded by other rockets.

Six-Cent Mail Is Here

• New rates detailed on Page 9.

OTTAWA (CP) — Rates for almost every item of mail go up today as Canada's post office enters a new era.

It costs you six cents, not five, to send a letter, whether it is going around the block or across the country.

It will be a nickel for Christmas cards, not three cents.

These and many other changes pinch the citizen and businessman now. More come next April 1 for publishers of newspapers and magazines.

Authority for the most expensive increases was granted the government in the nick of time Thursday evening, when royal assent was given to a government bill in the Senate chamber.

The post office has 67,000,000 six-cent stamps printed. They are ready for sale at wickets in Ontario and Quebec, but distribution will be delayed for a few days in other provinces, where residents will have to use a combination of smaller-denomination stamps.

Youth Image Urged To Enrich Socreds

Legislative Reporter

VANCOUVER — The Social Credit party in B.C. is going to try to build a new "youth image" in the next 12 months but will stick solidly behind its leader since 1952, 68-year-old William Andrew Cecil Bennett.

There were strong indications Thursday, provided by two cabinet ministers and the B.C.

Social Credit League president on the eve of the party's annual convention which opens today that this is the course mapped out by party strategists leading up to the next provincial general election.

Attorney-General Leslie Peterson, in a speech to the women's auxiliary convention Thursday morning, called on the party to appeal directly to youth, seeking to channel the energy that is bringing ferment to university campuses into "peaceful and meaningful" pursuit of change.

"NO STATUS QUO"

He said Social Credit began in 1952 as a reform movement in this province and still stands for useful innovations.

"We don't believe in keeping the status quo," Mr. Peterson said. "We are not prisoners of the past or past policies. We are prepared to take ideas and innovations from anywhere if they are good for the people of the province."

Mr. Peterson said restless youth in general and student activists in particular are being invited by Social Credit to participate in the decision-making process.

"We ask only that they exercise individual and social responsibility because with every right and every freedom there is a responsibility to ourselves as well as to society as a whole."

The attorney-general was applauded loudly when he

Canada Ready To Aid Peace

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp Thursday night hailed President Johnson's move to halt the bombing of North Vietnam as a "courageous" step and said Canada is ready to help in Vietnam peacekeeping efforts.

As a member of the International Control Commission, Canada was ready to help in the process of negotiation or in a peacekeeping capacity if both parties so wished. Sharp declined to say what kind of role Canada might play.

BURBANK, Calif. (LAT) — Zsa Zsa Gabor said Thursday that she had placed cold compresses on a badly scalded leg that she got during an outburst of temper between herself and George Jessel.

The incident occurred Wednesday afternoon at the beginning of a taping session of the show Here Come the Stars at the NBC studios in Burbank.

Miss Gabor was to have been the guest of honor. Other celebrities were supposed to tell humorous anecdotes about her.

She never appeared on the show because Jessel ordered her off the premises.

She locked herself in her dressing room and finally left in the company of "three beautiful, wonderful Irish policemen" from the Burbank police department, Miss Gabor said.

Jessel said by telephone from New York that the Hungarian-born actress had made anti-Semitic remarks about him and had shown up 1½ hours late for the show.

"That's no way to treat people. She had no regard for anybody," said Jessel, the show's master of ceremonies.

Miss Gabor said she was late because the show's producers had failed to send a hairdresser and makeup man to her home that morning.

"I do have to look like Zsa Zsa Gabor," she said.

After arriving at the studio, she said, a young woman took her hairpiece off to style it in Grecian curls.

"She made it look like Phyllis Diller," Miss Gabor said.

The actress said she then slipped out of her Christian Dior travelling coat partly into a robe to dress for her appearance when Jessel and other men burst into the dressing room.

"They saw me half-nude.

They saw everything on me," she said.

About the same time a page bringing her a sandwich and coffee came in and spilled the hot liquid on her leg, she said.

The man's behavior frightened her to the point that she was "petrified," she said. Miss Gabor said she called the police to escort her out of the studio.

The desk sergeant said he was startled to hear a voice on the telephone saying, "Hello, darling, this is Zsa Zsa . . ."

Caged and Corsetted Cowboys and Redskins

Players in the National Football League are a tough lot and their trainers are constantly coming up with equipment to protect injuries and keep the players in action.

VIEWS of SPORT

By Red Smith

Wearing bandages for the first time in his life, Damascus finished last, beaten 36 lengths, and when word came back from the barn that this capivating colt had bowed a tendon, a hundred pictures flickered through memory.

There was a dewy-bright morning at Saratoga when Damascus basked in the sunshine while his trainer, Frank Whiteley, played a stream from a garden hose on the horse's front legs. By this time Damascus had a bankroll of about $600,000 and they could have hired a swine to cosset him, but Frank Whiteley is a trainer who does the work himself. He hunkered down by the hour while the colt stood at peace luxuriating in the caress of the cool water.

Meanwhile a gaudy gamecock paced suspiciously in front of Damascus's stall. The chicken had flown over from a nearby barn early in the morning and taken up a roost on a rafter over the colt's head.

He was returned to his owner, who penned him up for several days, but as soon as he was turned loose the rooster flew back to Damascus. Obviously, there was a thing between him and the horse so they let him stay.

That was one picture. Another, repeated often through 1967 when the colt was winning distinction as horse of the year, could be subtitled "Damascus and his security blanket." In this picture, along with Damascus was an outrageously homely stable pony named Duffy.

Early in their days together, Whiteley realized that Damascus, for all his exceptional talent, had nerves like fluff strings. He was the favorite in the Kentucky Derby, but the crowds and clamor and bands and bustle unnerved him and he ran like a green, scared kid to finish third. After that, Whiteley took no chances.

Before the Preakness he kept Damascus down home at Laurel, vanning him up to Pimlico just in time for the race. Damascus won by more than two lengths, beating the Derby winner, Proud Clarion, by more than six. New York is too far from Laurel to permit the same strategy, so they moved up to Aqueduct for the Belmont Stakes. There the howl of jets coming into Kennedy Airport drove Damascus to distraction. Whiteley put a radio in his stall, tuned to a station that blared rock music day and night. The hideous blasts didn't bother Damascus at all, and they drowned out the terrifying noise from overhead.

Most of all, though, Whiteley relied on Duffy. On racing days, Damascus never left the barn without the pony at his side. In the paddock Duffy would stand crosswise at the open end of the saddling stall, screening off spectators.

Damascus would lay his head across Duffy's neck and muzzle the pony contentedly, drawing the same comfort from his buddy that Charley Brown's Linus gets from his blanket. Then Duffy would accompany him to the post, staying with him until the assistant starter took the colt's bridle. You could imagine Duffy telling him, "Nothing to worry about now, and I'll be waiting when you get back."

Usually Damascus got back right away. When Duffy took him to the post for the two-mile Jockey Club Gold Cup at Belmont Saturday, he had raced 31 times and never come back without part of the purse. His lifetime record was 21 victories, seven seconds, and three thirds.

As a three-year-old he beat every contender in his set, including Buckpasser, Dr. Fager, In Reality, Proud Clarion, Handsome Boy, and Ring Twice. At four he smashed the Aqueduct record for a mile and a quarter when he won the Brooklyn Handicap in 1:59-1/5.

That was one of the times he beat his chief rival, Dr. Fager—with, to be sure, help from his pacemaking accomplice, Hedevor. Coming up to the Gold Cup, he had been second in his last two races, having been licked by No Doubt in the Woodward Stakes.

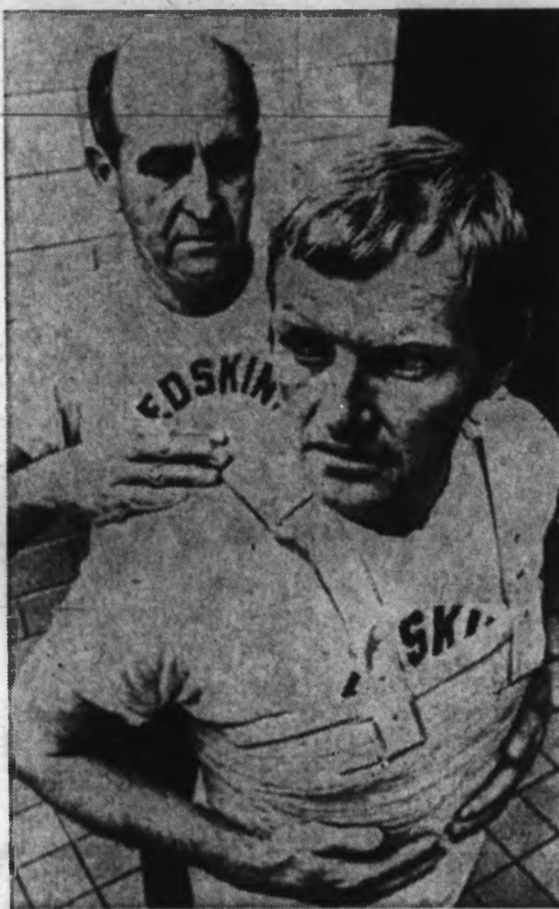

Since the Woodward, he had suffered a training setback. It was reported that he reaped a tendon while working Oct. 4. Unable to set him down in fast workouts, Whiteley gave him extended gallops trying to coax him up to the Woodward.

Clocks reported that when the horse set out in the mornings he looked sore, but would be going easily after galloping a piece. It goes without saying that if Frank Whiteley hadn't believed he was up to the race, the colt wouldn't have started. Only the horse could have known differently, and the chances are he wouldn't have begged off if he could talk. This horse broke himself down trying.

Paintmen Shellacked

Strongman also scored for Buckaroos, who ran up an 8-0 lead before Glenn Vickers averted a shutout for the losers at 15:20 of the final period.

In the other game, Victoria Auto Transmission downed Drake Hotel Aces, 5-1. Ken Hunt, with two goals, Doug Carter, Billy Allen and Pat Green scored for the winners after Drake's Barry Vollet had opened the scoring.

Barrie Rejoins Junior Cougars

Len Barrie, who had five goals and seven assists before he was hurt two weeks ago, will move back into his right wing position on a line with Grant Evans and Bruce Cowick for Saturday night's game against Vernon Essos at Memorial Arena.

Coach Doug Anderson's

LEAGUE GAME

The 8:15 game will be a regular league tussle between Stocker's North Americans and Butler Brothers which may put either team in first place.

"We didn't get started until the third period Saturday against Kelowna when the score was 6-2 against us," Anderson said.

"I'm going to use this game against the army to sharpen up our skating."

HALF OF PRODUCTION

Barrie with five goals, Cowick with six and Evans with 13 account for more than half of the Cougars' goal production so far this season. The line has total of 45 points to date.

Out of the lineup for at least one more week will be Gerry Bond who suffered a slight shoulder separation in a practise scrimmage last Friday.

Arsenal, Hotspur Drawn in Semis

LONDON (Reuters) — North London soccer rivals Arsenal and Tottenham Hotspur have been drawn to meet in the League Cup.

The two First Division giants, semi-finals of the English whose grounds are only a few miles apart, are almost certain to draw capacity crowds for the two legs of the tie Nov. 20 and Dec. 4.

The other semi-final will pit the promising young Burnley side against either Second Division Derby County or Third Division Swindon Town.

Derby and Swindon must meet in a replay after drawing 0-0 Wednesday night.

The Arsenal-Spurs draw means that for the third year running London will be represented in the Cup final at Wembley in March. Arsenal has beaten 2-1 by Leeds in last season's final.

REGINA (CP)—Defence-back Bruce Bennett, the last club member to come to terms, has signed a two-year contract with Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Canadian Football League's Western Conference. His salary was not disclosed.

New-look Forum Ready For Canadiens' Return

By AL McNEIL

MONTREAL (CP) — All the flair and color of a Hollywood premiere will be on display Saturday night as the completely renovated Montreal Forum opens its doors for the first time this season to the influx of hockey's horde of fans.

Montrealers, accustomed to the staid, institution-like, block-square building that has served as home to Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League since Nov. 29, 1924, may have to take a second look before they recognize the result of a $3,500,000 refurbishing of the arena.

EIGHT ON ROAD

The Canadiens, defending Stanley Cup champions, play host to Detroit Red Wings in their home opener Saturday. Montreal was forced to play its first eight games on the road this season because the gigantic face-lifting had not been completed.

Opening ceremonies are scheduled for 8 p.m. EST and along with the game, will be carried on the CBC's national television network.

UNOBSTRUCTED VIEW

The renovation program has provided advantages for both fans and players.

Fans now will have an unobstructed view of the ice from any of the 16,500 seats in the house. Gone are the pillars that served to hold up the roof but blocked the view of cash customers.

CAN EMPTY QUICKLY

From the entrance, fans now will be whisked to the upper reaches of the building in record time by seven high-speed escalators—a convenience that can be reversed at the end of a game to empty the building in 10 minutes.

Circulation areas on all levels have been enlarged to allow freer access to the ground-floor box office and the upstairs concession stands for refreshments.

PLUSH DRESSINGROOMS

The players, both Canadiens and visitors alike, have new and sumptuously laid-out plush red carpet on the floors. The clinic is directly behind the Montreal room and has been newly outfitted.

David Molson, club president, said Thursday the identity of celebrities taking part in the opening ceremony remains a secret. There had been speculation that Prime Minister Trudeau would attend. However, a spokesman for the prime minister's office said Mr. Trudeau was unable to accept an invitation to the affair.

It is understood all former members of Canadiens and Montreal Maroons teams, along with several members of Hockey's Hall of Fame, will take part.

EXPECT PUNCH LINE

This list likely will include Frank Selke, former Canadiens general manager, and the famed Punch Line of The Blake, Elmer Lach and Rocket Richard.

Molson will be host at a black tie party in a downtown hotel before Saturday's game and the Hockey Night in Canada sponsor.

FAN FARE

By WALT DIZEN

sors will hold a post-game reception at another hotel.

Originally the vast changes were planned to take place over a three-summer stretch, but suddenly the project was jacked into a one-summer effort.

It took 5½ months, beginning immediately after Canadiens captured the Stanley Cup from St. Louis Blues May 11, and continued throughout the summer.

One innovation is the installation of 10 private boxes located in the south end of the rink, just below the roof. These are designated VIP accommodation and sell at $3,600 for the season. All are sold.

Next game: Tonight—Chicago at Oakland.

Boston Bruins blew a chance for first place in the Eastern Division of the National Hockey League Thursday night, and New York Rangers took advantage of the situation to move into a three-way tie for second place with the Bruins and the idle Chicago Black Hawks.

Frank Mahovlich, Detroit's Big M, fired three goals, the last on a twisting, stick-handling display around two defenders to reach an empty net, to lead the last-place Red Wings to a 3-5 win over the Bruins.

Pete Stenkowski, traded to the Wings by Toronto with Mahovlich last season, scored twice for Detroit while Alex Delvecchio and rookie Danny Lawson each scored once. Ken Hodge with two, Bobby Orr, Johnny Bucyk and Phil Esposito scored for Boston.

Gordie Howe set up three goals and his first assist was his 900th in regular-season play.

NEVIN TAKES LEAD

With Bob Nevin assisting on both goals to take over first place from Chicago's Stan Mikita in the individual scoring race, the Rangers edged Philadelphia Flyers, 2-1, on a third-period goal by Don Marshall.

Nevin now has nine goals and eight assists to five goals and 11 assists for Mikita.

Harry Howell scored the other New York goal and Andre LaCroix scored for the Flyers.

It was New York's sixth victory without a loss against Western Division clubs this season. Flyers are winless in their last five games and remain tied for last place with Pittsburgh in the division.

It took 5½ months, beginning immediately after Canadiens captured the Stanley Cup from St. Louis Blues May 11, and continued throughout the summer.

One innovation is the installation of 10 private boxes located in the south end of the rink, just below the roof. These are designated VIP accommodation and sell at $3,600 for the season. All are sold.

Bridge Work Closes Gate

Hunters are warned that the gate to the Butler Bros. operations at Sooke will be closed this weekend. The company has been forced to re-new a key bridge on its logging roads, and the work will be done this weekend.

Greg Findlay, Gerela Picked

VANCOUVER (CP) — Greg Findlay and Ted Gerela of British Columbia Lions will receive awards during Saturday's Western Football Conference game here with Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Findlay, a 230-pound line-backer from Vancouver, has been named the most outstanding Canadian on the Lions and the team's outstanding lineman. Gerela, the Lions' place-kicking specialist from Powell River, B.C., has been named by fans as the club's most popular player.

Laver, Billie Jean Top Net Ratings

NEW YORK (AP) — Rod Laver of Australia was voted to the top spot in the men's division and Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., headed the women's division Friday in the 44th annual World Tennis Rankings.

Each of the 10 men and women ranked, representing six different countries, will receive Segram World Ranking tennis trophies.

The top 10 men were: Laver; Arthur Ashe, Richmond, Va.; Tom Okker, Netherlands; Ken Rosewall, Australia; John Newcombe, Australia; Tony Roche, Australia; Clark Graebner, New York City; Cliff Drysdale, South Africa; Pancho Gonzalez, Los Angeles; Dennis Ralston, Bakersfield, Calif.

The top 10 women: Mrs. King; Nancy Richey, San Angelo, Tex.; Margaret Court, Australia; Virginia Wade, England; Ann Jones, England; Judy Tegar, Australia; Maria Bueno, Brazil; Annette du Booy, South Africa; Lesley Bowrey, Australia; Rosemary Casals, San Francisco.

Claremont XV Scores Win

Claremont built up a 14-0 lead in the first half and went on to shutout Mt. Douglas, 19-0, Thursday in an exhibition high school rugby match at Beaver Lake Park.

Craig Davidson with two tries, Casey Wark with two converts and tries by Don McLaren, Bob Thomas and Art Clarke accounted for the winners' points.

The Claremont "B" team lost to Mt. Newton, 6-0, at Mt. Newton.

Keino Faints In Parade

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)—Kipchoge Keino, first Kenyan athlete to win Olympic gold medal, fainted during a victory parade witnessed by 30,000 Wednesday and was taken to hospital.

Doctors did not disclose what was wrong with Keino but he has suffered from stomach troubles and it was reported he was to have an operation in Germany.

Four-Day Conference on Act Changes

Indians Fire Salvoes at Game Laws

By MARY TAYLOR

NANAIMO — "There'd sure be a scream across Canada if Italians were forbidden to eat spaghetti or Englishmen to eat roast beef," Chief Ross Modeste of the Cowichan band said here Thursday.

The right to take fish, game and shellfish at any time without contravening game regulations was sought Thursday by delegates attending the second day of a four-day conference to propose changes in the Indian Act.

The 45 delegates, 50 observers (Indian and white) and 15 federal government officials were told that while conservation officers are told, at government expense, to thin out animal populations — taking fur seal as a recent example — Indians were denied the right to kill them for food.

Hunting and fishing rights are not laid out in the Indian Act, the meeting was told. "Too often conservation officers are too officious, and at times Indians are denied their just rights," Chief Modeste said.

A motion was passed on the matter of aboriginal hunting and fishing rights.

In other matters: "As far as I am concerned, the Indian point of view is paramount in changes to be made in the Indian Act," Robert Andras, minister without portfolio who has been given special responsibility for Indian affairs assured Indians.

Mr. Andras was replying to a question about the procedure to be followed with briefs and motions submitted by groups of delegates meeting across Canada.

He explained that all discussions are tape-recorded and abstracts will be prepared and made available to the bands and a subsequent meeting will be held, probably in late January, bringing together one spokesman from each regional meeting.

"This will pull all the discussion together and mix the views of the people here with those of the rest of the country."

Mr. Andras praised the briefs submitted Wednesday, and said they were the best he had seen to date in his travels across Canada. However, he warned that some of the suggestions might not entirely agree with suggestions from other parts of the country.

He told the gathering, "I agree that the examples given of the Indian Act denying the declaration of human rights are absolutely true."

He said everyone seeing it must feel a little ashamed that it is part of an act of Parliament.

Mr. Andras also agreed with the assertion that too much power is vested in the federal government and the Indian affairs department. "We must return authority to the band council and the band level."

Thursday's agenda, set up at in-camera meetings by Indians, established priorities and agreed to go through the Indian Act section by section, beginning with the definition of reserve land.

Chief John Albany of the Songhees reserve called for "legal protection from land grabbers."

He cited the plight of his own people who originally owned the city of Victoria. "The legislative buildings are on Songhees land and we have never been compensated," he said.

To date, he said, his band had been moved three times and "we don't want to see other bands the victims of land grabbers."

Mrs. Pearl Pointe of the Nanaimo band questioned the right of the provincial government to take over additional reserve property over and above the 5 per cent allowed for roads, canals, bridges and tow paths.

She said far too often when expropriation is mentioned, Indian bands take what is offered. "They must learn to bargain," Mrs. Pointe said. "If they want it badly enough," she said, "they will compensate for it."

Chief Philip Paul of the Tseilwilt band said because of inexperience in legal matters, the act is interpreted — or often misinterpreted — by local authorities.

"I am not saying this in a derogatory sense, but the act does get various interpretations at local levels."

Band councils have authority to set out resolutions, he said, but without the approval of the governor-general in council "this is of no use."

Indian affairs department authorities said that while expropriation of Indian land is possible, for many years it has been the policy of the department to tell the applicants they must go back and negotiate with the Indian band council.

Suggestions that authority should be turned over to individual bands rather than be held by the crown could bring problems, Commissioner J. V. Boys told delegates. "If this suggestion were carried out, reserve lands might then become taxable."

Nelson Kietlah of the Ahousaht moved there be exchange of reserve lands for other public lands to improve employment opportunities.

He explained that he comes from an isolated area — the band would like to exchange land with the government for a place where employment might be had more easily.

Cowichan Project Faltering

More Hands Needed For Christmas Cheer

DUNCAN — Support by local organizations and clubs is needed to keep the Cowichan Christmas Cheer going.

The Christmas Cheer has been in existence for more than 10 years and has proven to be very successful.

Approximately 225 families in the district received hampers last year.

Chairman Harold Allman said, "During the past few years the Cowichan Christmas Cheer organization has fallen onto too few shoulders, and I, for one, have found the load too heavy."

"For outside of the Gyrn Club which has delivered hampers, there has been little or no help."

The procedure to make up and distribute these cheer hampers has been proven and there is plenty of cash in the bank."

There will be a meeting next Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at Allman Estates Ltd. office, 35 Canada Avenue, Duncan, to discuss the future of this organization.

All clubs and organizations are invited to send a representative.

"If this meeting fails to appoint a chairman and an organization to continue the Cowichan Christmas Cheer, it is my intention to distribute, by cheque, the cash on hand to verified families in need at Christmas."

This is a good thing and it would be a shame to end, but people don't realize how much work is to be done," said Mr. Allman.

Petition Slams Service

Ferry Meeting Set

PORT ALBERNI — A public meeting for people involved with a petition circulating throughout the Island complaining about B.C. Ferry service will be held at Alberni District high school auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 10.

The meeting, arranged by Arthur Harrington, is expected to attract many people from all over the Island.

DURANTE COMING — Mr. Harrington said Thursday that Liberal MP for Comox-Alberni, Dick Durante, will fly out from Ottawa and represent the federal government.

Dr. Howard McDiarmid, MLA will likely attend, to represent the B.C. government.

Mr. Harrington stressed that the meeting was not intended to be a political battleground. He asked that those attending treat both men with the respect for the offices they serve.

The only topic to be discussed, Mr. Harrington, said, would be the B.C. ferries, their rates and service to people of the Island.

He said 4,000 signatures were added to the petition in the Alberni Valley and a few outlying districts.

ONLY TIME? — "I don't know exactly how many names are on the petition in other Island points, but from talking to various people around the Island, the response has been extremely good," he said.

He urged the public to attend this meeting so as to make its views and opinions known to Mr. Durante and Dr. McDiarmid. "This might be the only time we have a chance to have both members here, so let's get out and make our thoughts known."

Mr. Durante said earlier this week in Ottawa: "I agree with the petitioners that the present service leaves a great deal to be desired, particularly during the summer months. Although I do not necessarily agree with their proposals, I do agree with the principle," he said.

Islander Posted On Aid Board

The appointment of a five-man board to administer a new federal assistance program for Indian fishermen in British Columbia has been announced jointly by Jean Chretien, Indian affairs and northern development minister, and Jack Davis, fisheries and forestry minister.

Under this program, loans and grants will be paid to B.C. Indians for the construction and purchase of fishing vessels, equipment, gear and shore facilities, and for fisheries training courses. The program, to cost $4,000,000, will be phased over five years. Funds will be provided by the Indian Affairs and Northern Development department.

Members appointed to the Indian fishermen's development board are: James Gosnell, an Indian of Alyanish, B.C.; Robert Clifton of Comox, past president of the Native Brotherhood of British Columbia; T. F. Rothery, development officer with the Indian affairs branch, Vancouver; Leo Heite, manager, Gulf and Fraser Fishermen's Credit Union, Vancouver, and R. E. MacLaren, assistant regional director, fisheries department, Vancouver.

The board will hold its inaugural meeting shortly to elect a chairman and arrange for receiving applications from Indian fishermen. An administrative officer to be appointed by the fisheries department will provide technical advice and assist in the detailed administration of the program.

Voters' List

PARKSVILLE — Parksville village council will sit at a court of revision at 7:30 p.m. today to hear complaints and make corrections if necessary in the municipal voters' list.

Alleged Statement to Police

'I Hit Her—She Fell'

NANAIMO — Herbert Leith Wells, 23, of Holberg admitted in statements to police that he killed Carolyn Rufus, 26, May 19, in Alert Bay, in his summation to the 12-man jury, said Wells' claim that he was so drunk he passed out afterwards were not consistent with his actions.

He said the acts of hiding the body, hiding the woman's effects, returning to the room to clean up the broken beer bottle and cigarettes indicated a man with all his faculties working.

"The Crown says he knew what he was doing," Mr. Williams said.

RESUMES TODAY

"If he was not incapacitated, he must be found guilty as charged," he asserted.

Mr. Justice F. Craig Monroe, said his address to the jury would take more than an hour. The trial was adjourned to 10 a.m. today.

Defence counsel is John MacKenzie of Vancouver.

Halloween Clash Hurts Two

NANAIMO — Cpl. Bill Rayson and Staff-Sgt. Gib Perry were injured Thursday night when they took 400 teenagers mulling in Northbrook shopping centre during Halloween to leave.

Cpl. Perry moved toward the group and was jumped on, pulled to the ground, and kicked. Late Thursday night he was being treated in Nanaimo hospital two broken face bones. He will be sent to Veterans Hospital Victoria, today.

Staff-Sgt. Perry who rushed to his aid, was cut on the ear. The cut required stitches, and he was released.

Dyke Woes

This is first time heavy wooden dyke walls along sides of Courtenay River have broken, Bob Waugh, works superintendent said Thursday. Lewis Park, or perhaps more appropriately, Lewis Lake, is in distance. Dykes were built by federal government in 1932, and are now beginning to show weakness in various places along river and have broken alongside park, allowing water to flood in. If dykes are not replaced shortly, Courtenay itself could be flooded. Cost would be $200,000, for which federal government has agreed to pay half. However, no action has been taken as yet.

Campbell River Turns Out for Its Olympic Star

Ralph Gets Hero's Welcome Home

By HELEN MITCHELL

Campbell River turned out enthusiastically Wednesday to welcome home Ralph Hutton who won a silver medal in the 400 meters freestyle swimming event at the Olympics. The weatherman co-operated by providing a beautiful day. Ralph was met on his arrival in Vancouver Tuesday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs.

Ralph C. Hutton of Campbell River, his sisters, Lisl, a student at Simon Fraser University and Loril 13, and driven home Wednesday afternoon.

They were met at Oyster River Bridge by a cavalcade of floats and decorated cars and escorted into town.

Students from schools in the district lined the highway to cheer the swimmer passed. He received a civic welcome at the municipal hall where he and his family signed the guest book, then appeared before a large crowd assembled on Tyee Plaza.

Ralph was tendered a civic dinner in Discovery Inn attended by Mayor Kenneth McDonald and members of council, officials of the Chamber of Commerce which arranged the welcome, the Campbell River swim club and recreation commission.

In the evening the community hall was filled to capacity for an open house reception where Ralph received several gifts, as well as congratulatory telegrams from John Munro, Minister of National Health and Welfare, Premier Bennett, Dan Campbell, W. K. Kiernan, Dick Durante, MP for Comox-Alberni and the Royal Canadian Legion.

Free refreshments were served to about 800 persons by the Legion auxiliary. Assisting the Chamber of Commerce with the reception were the Campbell River fire department, the swim club, school cheer leaders and the Legion pipe band.

When asked what he thought of the welcome, Ralph kept repeating "fantastic, just fantastic. And I certainly appreciated all the support I received while in Mexico City. I got 27 telegrams from Campbell River alone."

One of the gifts was an inscribed gold wrist watch presented on behalf of the people of Campbell River by Mayor McDonald.

"This will come in handy," said the swimmer. "I had my watch stolen in Mexico City." Besides his watch, Ralph lost his transistor radio and all his money except for 25 pesos, about $9.00.

Retiring Worker Honored

PORT ALBERNI—An original painting by local artist Trevor Godall was presented to retiring city works employee George Richardson at city council meeting Monday night.

Mr. Richardson, said Mayor Fred Elshop, has a wonderful record of service to the city. He began as a part-time employee in 1929, and was later employed as foreman of a gang clearing trees off what is now Redford Street, main highway access to the city. Mr. Richardson has 35 years of accumulated service, was road foreman with the works department until his retirement Oct. 15.

$300,000, Businesses Gone

Flames Swallow Lumber Sheds

A $300,000 fire of unknown origin roared through storage buildings at Shawigan Building Supplies Ltd., 2000 Government Street, late Wednesday and early this morning.

Company president Michael F. Jiggins said $300,000 worth of doors, mouldings, plywood and finishing supplies were destroyed.

"I can't really say what the value of the stock is, but I guess it is around $300,000," he said. "I am sure we are covered by insurance."

"The odd thing is that Thursday is our anniversary. I have been in this business for just one year, and we were going to start stock-taking tomorrow. The fire could put 16 men out of work."

Building contractors J. and E. Hutchinson rented a building in the yard which was also destroyed. Company president J. H. Hutchinson could only watch and complain. "All my records have gone in that office. I don't know what the value of my stuff was, but it could be around $3,000."

BUILDING, STOCK
Pells' Restaurant Supply also lost its building and stock when the flames spread from the yard into an office and warehouse the company rented.

Flames also caused some damage to the back of the adjoining United Engineering Ltd. building.

Whipped by a 15-mile-an-hour wind and visible from all over Greater Victoria, the fire charged through two storage buildings in about two hours.

Victoria fire department first sent in an aerial ladder truck, three pump trucks, a service truck and 15 men. Another 15 men were called out shortly afterward.

Fire Chief Eric Simmons said he requested and was given an additional pumper from Saanich, and Oak Bay Fire Department was standing ready in case more help was needed.

GAS TANKS

Some concern was caused by the nearness of the B.C. Hydro's two big gas tanks to the fire, but a Hydro spokesman said one tank had been out of use for some time, and the chance of the other causing trouble was negligible. The tanks are in the next block to the fire.

A three-man welding crew working at United Engineering, whose building backs against the Shawigan buildings, was unaware that the neighbor was ablaze until "some guy stuck his head in the door and said, 'Don't you know you've got a fire next door?'" said Ernest Winkler of 1381 Columbia Drive.

"I looked, and sure enough, there was a fire," he said. "I ran out and turned in the alarm."

Then he and the other two men started rolling the oxygen bottles and two trucks out of the shop.

"I could see the inside of building. It was really going. It looked as though about half of it was burning on the inside. It seemed like the fire started in that corner," he said, indicating the northeast corner of the burning building.

The other two men in the welding crew raced to put out flames that had reached the upper part of the engineering building.

"A beam there supports a 50-ton crane," Mr. Winkler said. The crew put out the blaze.

Rapid evacuation of B.C. Hydro Blue Line buses from a building adjoining the fire was hampered by the curious spectators until the sweating crew shouted the crowd back.

Fire Chief Simmons said it was early to tell what had caused the blaze. "We'll have to wait for morning when it cools down," he said.

Spectators Tackle Runaway Hose, Man

A runaway fire hose threw its handler for a 200-foot loss at the height of the fire.

The unidentified fireman, wetting down the nearby B.C. Hydro garage, tried to shift his powerful stream of water. The nozzle heaved its own off its iron support and hurled the fireman face-down on the pavement.

Man and hose whipped back and forth along Pembroke Street until about 20 firemen and spectators leaped on them and pinned them down. The fireman, scratched and bruised, went on with his original task.

Administration Link Made for Hospital

The regional hospital board Wednesday approved the Royal Jubilee Hospital taking over administrative responsibility for the new Eric Martin Institute.

But it also decided to make sure that this in no way committed the regional district to pay any of the costs of the mental health institute.

Oak Bay Ald. Frances Elford said an integration of administration "makes sense" but close scrutiny was needed to ensure the mental health services were always paid for by the provincial government.

And the board's consultant, A. W. E. Pitkethley, said Jubilee Hospital should protect itself so that, if administrative necessities required any changes in the institute, they would be made at government expense.

In other business, the board approved the awarding to Farmer Construction Ltd. of a $498,000 contract for construction of additions to the laboratory at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Weavers Agree On Pact

Striking shingle workers are expected to return to work Friday morning at McCarter Shingle Co. in Victoria.

Gordon Elworthy, director of the company, said Wednesday that agreement had been reached on much the same terms as between workers and Smith Cedar Products Ltd., of Victoria, and the Hunting-Merritt division of Canadian Forest Products Ltd., in Vancouver on Monday.

Mr. Elworthy said settlement was based on the 35-cent-an-hour increase over two years recently negotiated between the International Woodworkers of America and Forest Industries Relations, but includes "revision of the odd job rate."

Region District Board

Sewage Policy Clarity Sought

The Capital Region District Board decided Wednesday to try to find out exactly what the provincial policy is on sewage disposal into the sea.

Board members unanimously agreed to seek a joint interview with Water Resources Minister Ray Williston and Health Minister Ralph Lofmark.

Mr. Lofmark has stated he will insist on treatment before allowing an increased discharge of sewage into the ocean.

But standards set by the Pollution Control Board, for which Mr. Williston is responsible, would allow continued discharge of sewage without treatment.

Since cost of treatment plants in this area is estimated at about $16,000,000, the regional board wants to know what standard it must comply with.

INTERNATIONAL EXPERTS
Esquimalt Mayor Ray Bryant raised the matter at Wednesday's board meeting during discussion of a report on the recent public forum on sewage disposal.

At that forum, international experts agreed that sewage could be safely disposed of in the salt water off the island.

Mayor Bryant said he took exception to some editorial criticism of the composition of the panel of experts.

He said, "to suggest these experts were biased is a reflection on their professional integrity. It is impossible to conceive these men were bought by the regional board."

PUBLIC FORUM

The board decided that, as a result of the public forum it would endorse the earlier recommendation of the experts that untreated sewage should continue to be disposed of into the sea.

But, as Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis said, "We may be forced to install treatment plants."

Nuclear Arms Redeployed

BRUSSELS (Reuters) —

NATO planners are redeploying 7,000 tactical nuclear weapons in hidden sites around Europe as a result of "a spy scare" sweeping West Germany and NATO. Sources said codes are being changed and NATO spy catchers are planning checks on employees.

Alaska Fishboat Burned

CAMPBELL RIVER — The fire department answered a call to the Standard Oil wharf, Tyee Plaza, at 6 a.m. recently when fire caused approximately $500 damage to the 35-foot fishboat, the Rondar.

The boat was one of three American fishboats en route from Alaska to Seattle. The fire is believed to have been caused by a blowback from the galley cook stove. Owner Dave Workman of Petersburg, Alaska, received a badly cut hand when reaching for a fire extinguisher took hold of a butcher knife instead. It required 14 stitches.

NANAIMO — Teachers in Nanaimo school district have been reminded to tell their pupils about the televised world premier of the film Heidi, to be shown on CBC-TV at 8 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 10. The film, sponsored by MacMillan Bloedel, has been a classic children's story for 88 years. It became so popular that 13 editions were published in many languages in the 10 years following its first publication. Heidi was filmed in the Swiss Alps and took 1½ years to produce.

LAKE OOWICHAN — Ronald Murray Mason, 32, of Honey Moon Bay, has been fined $430 in magistrate's court in Duncan. Court was told Mason was stopped in Lake Cowichan late one evening and his vehicle was searched. He was arrested for driving while under suspension, having a loaded firearm in his car and resisting arrest. A rifle was confiscated by the Crown.

GOLD RIVER — The Gold River and District Chamber of Commerce will hold its first meeting in the Gold Room of the Gold River Chalet at 6:30 p.m. Saturday. Dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m.

Bob Douglas, acting chairman of the chamber, said 80 invitations have been sent out. However, as this is an open meeting, he said he hoped many more couples will attend. Tickets are available at the bank, the hotel, the barbershop and the B.A. station in Gold River.

CAYCOUSE — B.C. Forest Products Cowichan logging division at Caycouse is sending 25 fir logs to Osaka, Japan, for Expo 1970. The longest is 68 feet, and has a 44-inch butt and 31 inch top. The logs will be rafted and towed to Vancouver with logs supplied by Crown Zellerbach, Ladysmith, and MacMillan Bloedel, Copper Canyon. They will be used in the main structure in the B.C. Pavilion at Expo and the 25 logs from Caycouse will be in the centre.

SHAWNIGAN LAKE — Twenty-four-year-old Frederick Wayne McLean of Montreal was arrested in that city by police and was brought back to stand trial in Duncan. McLean is charged with the theft of two citizen band radios from the Shawnigan Lake area. He appeared before Magistrate Lance Heard and was remanded for eight days without plea. He will appear in Shawnigan Lake magistrate's court.

UCLUELET — Rev. Eric Blackstock of Parksville has been appointed minister of St. Aidan's Anglican Church, Ucluelet, and St. Columba Anglican Church, Tofino. He and his family will live in the vicarage at Ucluelet. Mr. Blackstock succeeds Rev. H. Silvester, transferred in September to Metchoan. Rev. J. W. Leighton, now living here in retirement, has been filling in.

DUNCAN — After one and a half years of countless voluntary working hours members of the Cowichan Fish and Game Association will officially open their Glenora shooting range at 10 a.m. Sunday.

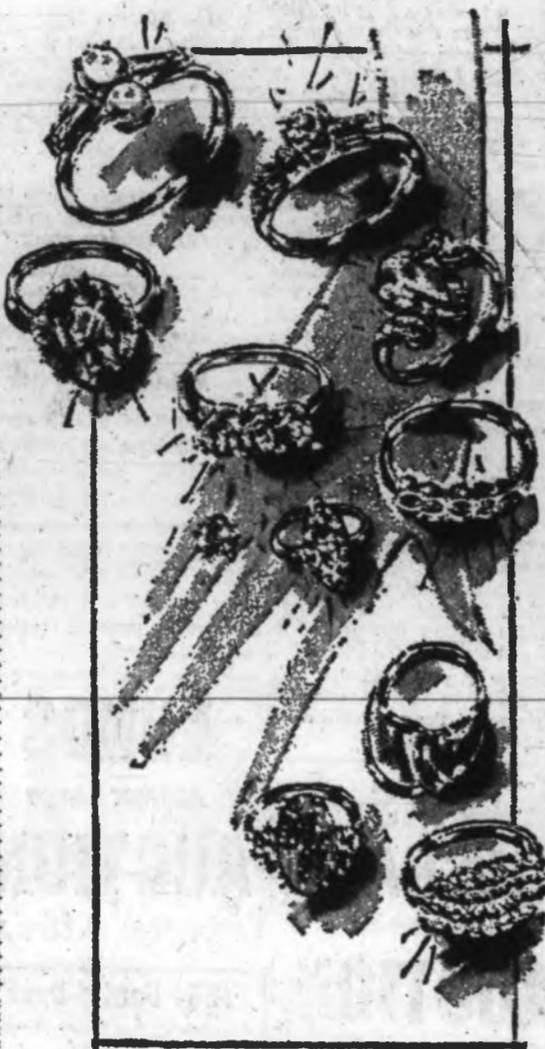

Club president Jack Feilden will officiate and a public prize shoot will highlight the event. The range on Vaux Road is about four miles southwest of Duncan.

YOUNGBOU — Youngbou's Lion's Club is looking for at least five more members so it can get its charter. The club was formed recently and at present has a membership of 15.

The executive is: Norm Dickens, president; George Budden, first vice-president; Bob Ferguson, secretary, and Murray McIntyre, treasurer.

CAMPBELL RIVER — Close to 100 senior citizens attended a meeting of the Old Age Pensioners' Organization and enjoyed a hot turkey dinner prepared and served by Island View Rebekah Lodge. The meeting took the form of a social afternoon, with entertainment provided by the members themselves. Gifts were presented to the oldest persons attending, William McLeod and Mrs. John Crowley.

Johnson: 'We expect progress'

Help for HH: Is It Enough?

By ROBERT J. DONOVAN
(Colonist Los Angeles Times Service)

WASHINGTON — The bombing halt and broadening of Vietnam talks announced by President Johnson Thursday injected a new and significant — but not necessarily decisive — factor into the presidential campaign five days before the election.

Obviously, the decision is a big help to Vice-President Hubert Humphrey, the apparent underdog. This is a far cry, however, from saying it will defeat Richard Nixon. For it has never been established that Nixon's lead has depended on the day-to-day situation in Vietnam. Rather it has been due to many factors, notably the widespread desire for a change.

Above and beyond the president's dramatic announcement, the more critical factor in an increasingly foggy political situation is that for some time now Humphrey evidently has been closing in on Nixon. What has been happening, it seems, is that Democratic voters who kicked over the traces after the debacle at the Democratic national convention in Chicago, have begun drifting back to party regularity.

Some of them are former supporters of Sen. Eugene McCarthy. McCarthy's endorsement of the vice-president on Tuesday doubtless accelerated their return.

Others among those returning are Democratic labor unionists who had decided to flit to former Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, but who now seem to be coming back to the Democratic fold as a result of the extraordinary job being done by union leaders to pull their followers into line behind the vice-president.

In other words, if Humphrey were somehow to bring off the greatest political upset since Harry Truman defeated Thomas Dewey in 1948, the basis of his victory would have been the Democratic surge that began even before the president's speech. The bombing halt would be the frosting on the cake.

If this analysis, supported by some of the best experts there are, is correct, then it is the trend before the bombing halt and not the announcement itself that will have been decisive.

In a very close election, of course, the frosting might make the difference. The political picture has reached such a point of opacity that for all anyone really knows, very small shifts in the total vote could decide the election.

Hence the significance of the boost that the vice-president got from the White House Thursday night.

While encouraged, however, not many of his supporters

Saigon Miffed

SAIGON (UPI) — A miffed South Vietnamese government said today in its first official reaction to the U.S. bombing halt that President Johnson "unilaterally took the decision" to end the air raids over North Vietnam.

Several government sources had said in private that Johnson's decision would mean a great loss of face for President Thieu.

U.S. HALTS BOMBING

Saigon, Cong To Join Talks

From Reuters - AP - UPI
WASHINGTON — President Johnson Thursday night ordered a complete bombing halt over

North Vietnam to open the way for full-scale political talks between the United States, North Vietnam, South Vietnam and the Viet Cong.

In Paris, U.S. and North Vietnamese negotiators early today plunged into immediate preparations for full-scale peace talks, set to begin next Wednesday.

A spokesman for the Hanoi group said a press conference would be held later today in response to Johnson's announcement.

The president's dramatic announcement was coupled with a sharp warning that the new talks "cannot continue" if the communists take advantage of the American decision to stop the bombing.

Johnson ended three weeks of worldwide speculation by announcing in a television broadcast that all U.S. air, naval and artillery bombardment of North Vietnam would end at 5 a.m. PST today.

"What we now expect — what we have a right to expect — are prompt, productive, serious and intensive negotiations in an atmosphere that is conducive to progress," he said.

Official sources said the president acted because he had "reason to believe" that Hanoi would scale down the fighting and would respect the demilitarized buffer zone between North and South Vietnam.

Hubert Humphrey said in Newark, N.J., he "fully supported" Johnson's halt of the bombing and called it a "prudent and . . . wise decision."

Minutes after the announcement, the campaigning Democratic presidential candidate said "I hope it will lead to a peaceful settlement."

His Republican opponent, Richard Nixon, appearing at a rally in New York's Madison Square Garden, would not comment beyond saying "I trust this action may bring some progress in those (Paris) talks."

One of his supporters, however, said Johnson's decision was made possible by Nixon's "responsible support of the president's efforts."

Third presidential candidate George Wallace, in Norfolk, Va., also refused any comment except to say "I sincerely hope we have an honorable settlement."

North Vietnamese reaction quoted in Paris was: "This removes a tremendous obstacle to peace — but now the political struggle for our country begins."

Further comment was withheld pending study of the announcement.

Washington sources indicated that Johnson declined to declare the bombing halt even without a public pledge of military reciprocity because of secret indications that Hanoi would refrain from taking military advantage of the American move.

Rocket Slams Church

SAIGON (AP) — United States warplanes carried out daylight missions against North Vietnam today but orders went out to stop the northern bombing by 9 p.m. Saigon time in line with President Johnson's bombardment halt.

In the South, rockets slammed into Saigon Thursday night and then early today just before President Johnson made his announcement in Washington. One rocket hit a Roman Catholic church, killing 19 worshippers and wounding 64. Two other persons died and 14 were wounded by other rockets.

Six-Cent Mail Is Here

• New rates detailed on Page 9.

OTTAWA (CP) — Rates for almost every item of mail go up today as Canada's post office enters a new era.

It costs you six cents, not five, to send a letter, whether it is going around the block or across the country.

It will be a nickel for Christmas cards, not three cents.

These and many other changes pinch the citizen and businessman now. More come next April 1 for publishers of newspapers and magazines.

Authority for the most expensive increases was granted the government in the nick of time Thursday evening, when royal assent was given to a government bill in the Senate chamber.

The post office has 67,000,000 six-cent stamps printed. They are ready for sale at wickets in Ontario and Quebec, but distribution will be delayed for a few days in other provinces, where residents will have to use a combination of smaller-denomination stamps.

Youth Image Urged To Enrich Socreds

VANCOUVER — The Social Credit party in B.C. is going to try to build a new "youth image" in the next 12 months but will stick solidly behind its leader since 1952, 68-year-old William Andrew Cecil Bennett.

There were strong indications Thursday, provided by two cabinet ministers and the B.C.

Social Credit League president on the eve of the party's annual convention which opens today, that this is the course mapped out by party strategists leading up to the next provincial general election.

Mr. Peterson, General Leslie Peterson, in a speech to the women's auxiliary convention Thursday morning, called on the party to appeal directly to youth, seeking to channel the energy that is bringing ferment to university campuses into "peaceful and meaningful" pursuit of change.

"NO STATUS QUO"

He said Social Credit began in 1952 as a reform movement in this province and still stands for useful innovations.

"We don't believe in keeping the status quo," Mr. Peterson said. "We are not prisoners of the past or past policies. We are prepared to take ideas and innovations from anywhere if they are good for the people of the province."

Mr. Peterson said restless youth in general and student activists in particular are being invited by Social Credit to participate in the decision-making process.

"We ask only that they exercise individual and social responsibility because with every right and every freedom there is a responsibility to ourselves as well as to society as a whole."

The attorney-general was applauded loudly when he

Canada Ready To Aid Peace

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp Thursday night hailed President Johnson's move to halt the bombing of North Vietnam as a "courageous" step and said Canada is ready to help in Vietnam peacekeeping efforts.

As a member of the International Control Commission, Canada was ready to help in the process of negotiation or in a peacekeeping capacity if both parties so wished. Sharp declined to say what kind of role Canada might play.

Israelis Blow Up Targets Deep in Egypt Territory

From AP, UPI

An Israeli commando unit slipped deep into Egypt Thursday night, blew up two bridges and a power station on the Nile River and got back safely to Israel, the Israeli army announced in Tel Aviv.

Israel said the action, 144 miles north of the Aswan Dam, was reprisal for "a series of aggressive Egyptian acts" across the Suez Canal in past weeks.

Meanwhile, Jordanian and Israeli patrols fought half a dozen skirmishes along the Jordan River.

Two mine explosions wounded three Israeli soldiers deep inside occupied territory while Cairo sources warned "the situation is approaching an explosion point."

The warning came from Al Ahram, the newspaper widely regarded as the voice of President Gamal Abdel Nasser's government.

Egyptian sources also said Salah Gohar, undersecretary for Palestinian affairs, told chief UN truce observer Gen. Adnan Bulut that Egypt would feel free to open fire at will on any Israeli positions along the 15-mile Suez Canal front.

In Jerusalem, Israel resolved to continue working with the UN, but it also appeared determined to stick to its demand for face-to-face talks with the Arabs.

George No 'Dahling' Any More

(Colonist Los Angeles Times Service)

BURBANK, Calif. (LAT) — Zsa Zsa Gabor said Thursday that she had placed cold compresses on a badly scalded leg that she got during an outburst of temper between herself and George Jessel.

The incident occurred Wednesday afternoon at the beginning of a taping session of the show Here Come the Stars at the NBC studios in Burbank.

Miss Gabor was to have been the guest of honor. Other celebrities were supposed to tell humorous anecdotes about her.

She never appeared on the show because Jessel ordered her off the premises.

She looked herself in her dressing room and finally left in the company of "three beautiful, wonderful Irish policemen" from the Burbank police department, Miss Gabor said.

Jessel said by telephone from New York that the Hungarian-born actress had made anti-Semitic remarks about him and had shown up 1½ hours late for the show.

"That's no way to treat people. She had no regard for anybody," said Jessel, the show's master of ceremonies.

Miss Gabor said she was late because the show's producers had failed to send a hairdresser and makeup man to her home that morning.

"I do have to look like Zsa Zsa Gabor," she said.

After arriving at the studio, she said, a young woman took her hairpiece off to style it in Grecian curls.

"She made it look like Phyllis Diller," Miss Gabor said.

The actress said she then slipped out of her Christian Dior travelling coat partly into a robe to dress for her appearance when Jessel and other men burst into the dressing room.

"They saw me half-nude."

They saw everything on me," she said.

About the same time a page bringing her a sandwich and coffee came in and spilled the hot liquid on her leg, she said.

The men's behavior frightened her to the point that she was "petrified," she said.

Miss Gabor said she called the police to escort her out of the studio.

The desk sergeant said he was startled to hear a voice on the telephone saying, "Hello, dahling, this is Zsa Zsa . . ."

Drive Extended

Appeal
Short
Of Aim

The United Red Feather-Red Cross Appeal is still far short of its objective.

By Thursday evening $350,228 had been donated, representing 53 1/2 per cent of the $655,000 target.

Originally, the campaign was to have ended Thursday, but it has been extended into November as it has for many years.

DONATIONS BEHIND
Donations are running slightly behind the pace set last year, officials say. But they say it is possible some of the larger donations are being made later than usual this time.

Meanwhile, special depots have been set up to receive donations. They are in three stores: Eaton's, The Bay and Woodwards, and the main branches of the Bank of Montreal, Bank of Nova Scotia, Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, Royal Bank and Toronto Dominion Bank.

Donations are also being received at the Redman's special events caravan which will be at Yates and Douglas until Monday night. After that it will be at the Town and Country shopping centre Tuesday and Wednesday and the Mayfair centre the next three days.

Identification
Testimony
Occupies Trial

By A. H. MURPHY

Evidence aimed at identification of a body found by police near Prospect Lake on July 27, took up most of Thursday as a non-capital murder trial went into its fourth day in Supreme Court here.

The court heard testimony from a dentist, a blood expert, an expert on matching hair and fibre and the director of Saanich police identification department. Throughout the trial there have been a number of interruptions as counsel for Crown and defence argue over the admission of evidence while the jury is sent out of the courtroom. There were two such incidents Thursday.

WILL BE LENGTHY

There was little doubt Thursday that the trial would be lengthy and it was freely predicted that all of next week might elapse before the jury retired to consider its verdict.

Accused of non-capital murder of hotel clerk Bruce van Munster, 24, last March 15, are Gerry Hugh McWhirter, 24, and Frederick James Morry, 28.

Dr. Robert L. Horne said he had been van Munster's dentist since van Munster was a boy of seven or eight. In the course of the years he had had to extract three of his patient's teeth to prevent overcrowding in his mouth.

MATCHED CHART

On July 29, he examined the mouth of a decayed and mummified body and found that the condition of the teeth in the corpse corresponded to the notations on a dental chart he had kept on van Munster over the years.

Parking
Curbed

Morning rush-hour parking restrictions on the west side of Quadra from Market to Courtney start at 7 a.m. today. Parking restrictions are from 7 to 9 a.m. Monday through Friday.

Victoria traffic engineer David Campbell said Thursday the restrictions were necessary to allow the curb lane to carry the early rush hour traffic.

Audubon Film
At Museum

National Audubon Society lecturer Fran William Hall will present a film, The Real Yellowstone, at 8 p.m. today and Saturday in the auditorium of the new provincial museum. Next Audubon film, Wings of the Wild, will be shown Feb. 7 and 8.

He identified an x-ray plate as one he took in his office in August, 1966, the last time he saw his patient.

The picture corresponded with one of a series of pictures taken of the head of the body taken by Royal Jubilee Hospital technician Percival W. A. Rogers, Dr. Horne said.

AS ONE PICTURE

So closely did they correspond, he told members of the jury, that one could be superimposed on the other and they appeared as one picture.

The dentist went into specific detail as to the nature of a filling shown in the pictures.

He said there was no doubt in his mind that the teeth he examined in the body under autopsy in July, 1966, were the teeth of Bruce van Munster.

BLOOD TESTS

Earlier, x-ray technician Rogers and his assistant, Kathleen F. Raven, gave testimony regarding the taking of x-ray pictures of the teeth in the body.

Next two witnesses were from the RCMP crime detection laboratory in Vancouver.

Mrs. Frances Ferris, a blood expert, said she took tests from a number of places in the back seat and trunk of an automobile brought to her in Vancouver by detectives.

HAIR, FIBRE

In samples from three stains taken from the inside of the trunk, human blood was found, she said. She added that she was unable to say how long it had been there.

Adolfus Evers said he removed human hair and fibre from the same car trunk. Hair matched samples given him by Saanich police, and the fibres matched those of an overcoat and trousers provided by police, he said.

Under cross-examination, Mr. Evers said he realized the study of hair and fibre was not an exact science.

FINGERPRINTS
"I believe there is only one exact science," the witness told defence counsel Dermot Owen Flood.

Asked what it was, Mr. Evers replied, "Mathematics."

Sgt. Anthony H. Clark, of Saanich police identification department, told of finding fingerprints in the car that were not those of either of the accused.

The trial continues at 10:30 a.m. today.

Halloween Changed
And Police Pleased

By BOB FETHICK

Halloween just aren't what they used to be, a veteran sergeant said late Thursday night as 158 policemen and auxiliaries had smiles for Victoria's youth.

Big incident in a night of what police termed "a flock of little accidents" was a raid on Centennial Square in which about 40 teenagers were shoed out after touching off a string of firecrackers.

Two reasons were listed by police as keeping down the fuss—the firecracker ban bylaw and the chilly weather.

Meanwhile on the homefront a little tramp in blackface grinned as he hefted his swag bag. "Halloween is for trick and treats," he said.

Hundreds of youngsters were on the streets on the one night of the year when door knocking and candy demands are legal.

Some children were masked, others in elaborate costume, some in old clothes for scanty disguise.

The little ones had a mother or father hovering patiently in the gloom.

About the only things in common were the grins—and the bulging sacks.

Highlight of Halloween for a Colonist staffer arrived while he was walking his dog shortly before going on shift at 7 p.m. and it skipped its leash and rushed to the door of a neighborhood house.

As he was retrieving the dog a young lady came to the door with a bag of candy and a box of apples. "I'm sorry, I'm fresh out of tricks," said the reporter. The young lady gave him an apple—it was delicious.

Road Travel Not So Hot

Trout Prefer Air Drops

For a fingerling rainbow trout, it is safer to go to the lake via a 400-foot fall from an aircraft than by B.C. roads.

Officials at the province's fish and wildlife branch explained, that this is not meant as a criticism of the roads.

It's just that the infant rainbows don't always fare well during long hauls to more remote lakes aboard trucks for restocking purposes, says public information officer George Ferguson.

On the other hand, when the fingerling is dropped from a plane, "it kind of floats down like a leaf," he said Thursday.

It is partly for this reason that planes are used for the major part of the restocking program.

In September, according to the branch, 2,000,000 fingerlings were distributed through 190 B.C. lakes. Of these, 186 lakes were restocked by air.

Mr. Ferguson said the death rate was much higher among the fish transported by trucks. "But when they are dropped they just hit the water and scurry away unharmed," he said. "The mortality rate is almost nil."

The fingerlings are packed in cans and plastic bags that contain water and oxygen. The containers are marked with names of various lakes, and it is up to the "bomber" to release the right fingerlings over the right lake at the right time.

Board's Aid for Teachers

Area Pupils' Ability

By BILL STAVDAL

The computer has been enlisted to help assess all of Greater Victoria's school children.

The Greater Victoria school board's division of research and testing is producing permanent record cards from batteries of tests administered recently in all schools.

Every child except those in kindergarten—29,000 in all—will soon have a personal assessment card which will follow him as long as he remains in the school district, research and testing head David Price said this week.

Each child has been assigned a seven-digit number based on his birth date. The number will be used for faster information retrieval by computer, said Mr. Price.

TEST PAPERS

Leased computer facilities at the University of Victoria and downtown have been used to mark test papers and prepare individual assessments, Mr. Price said.

He denied a suggestion that assigning children numbers and introducing the computer to testing would dehumanize education.

'LIBERATION'

More efficient information retrieval would "liberate teachers from being clerks," he forecast.

"Most of our counselors spend much of their time doing clerical work and not people things," said Mr. Price, a former counsellor.

He forecast the school district might some day install TV-type screens in each school, connected to a central computer registry.

A VARIATION

A variation would be a teletype installation, Mr. Price suggested.

Another feature of a computer system is that it can be used to test the tests, he said.

If most children—bright and dull—miss the correct answer to a question, then there is something wrong with the question, he explained.

Mr. Price also said the current battery of tests did not comprise "intelligence" tests. They assessed basic skills and concepts, he said, and measured a child's ability to do academic work.

VLA Applications

Deadline Day
'Fantastic'

"This is the most fantastic day I have known in my 23 years with the department."

The occasion had been the deadline Thursday for benefits under the Veterans' Land Act and the words were the only ones VLA district manager G. E. Burrell could find to describe what had happened.

He said the staff of five in the VLA office at 805 Government had opened the doors at 8:15 a.m., expecting something of a surge on the last day of registration.

"But nothing like this," he said at 4:30 p.m.

By that time, 387 applications had been accepted. There was another handful still to be processed.

It was the last day on which veterans could register for the special purchase of land. Under the act, an individual lot can be purchased for the erection of a single-family home, or with a single-family home already erected. Those registering are protected until March 31, 1974.

During the height of Thursday's rush, the lineup extended two deep from in front of the counter in the seventh-floor VLA office into two side offices.

"None of us even got to lunch," said Mr. Burrell.

Fire Origin Sought

Arson Possibility
Not Discounted

Investigators searching for the origin of the fire that may have caused more than $500,000 damage here late Wednesday and Thursday night have not discounted arson.

However, by Thursday night they had not turned up anything to indicate what the cause might have been.

The biggest fire in Victoria in three years, it destroyed the storage building of Shawinigan Building Supplies, 2000 Government, the building housing Pell's Restaurant Supply, and the office and warehouse of building contractor Eric Hutchinson.

LOSS $500,000

Shawinigan officials have placed the loss on their building and contents at $300,000. Damage to the Pell building and contents may run to $140,000, according to unofficial estimates.

No figure has been placed on the Hutchinson building.

Deputy Fire Chief Coates said Thursday night he would not estimate the overall damage until he had consulted with insurance officials.

Meanwhile, the job of turning up the cause is being directed by an investigator from the fire marshal's office in Vancouver.

Eric Hutchinson looked at the ashes that were left on the site of his contracting building Thursday and said: "Here goes everything."

When he was asked where his office was now located, he said: "In my pocket."

He referred to a pen and little black book which he said were all that survived the fire. Later, however, neighbors, friends and business associates rallied behind him with offers of office space, an adding machine and book work.

Elderly Citizens Ask:

Spread Mobile Meals

By NANCY BROWN

Subsistence on a meagre diet in a lonely room is the bleak way of life of many of Victoria's elderly citizens.

In Saanich the situation has been alleviated for several years by the meals-on-wheels service, which served 1,869 meals to housebound citizens during April, May, June and July.

The Community Welfare Council is to be asked to determine how the service can be extended throughout the urban area.

The decision was taken by the Metropolitan Board of Health after members heard how some people exist on a diet of bread and margarine, tea and occasionally an uncooked Wiener.

Senior Medical Health Officer Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread said he had received enquiries from elderly citizens in Langford, Esquimalt, Oak Bay and the city about the meals-on-wheels service.

The Silver Threads Service is ready to help the venture if it is launched, director Mrs. Katherine Horne said Thursday.

"There are lots of reasons why old people live this way," she said.

"Of course there's a lack of money, but also many of them live alone in one room with just a hotplate to cook on."

Mrs. Horne said she hoped people who had cars available in the daytime would volunteer to deliver five or 10 meals a day.

"If it was worked out geographically, it could be done that way," she said.
